PREFACE

The Tantra is a system of knowledge that will be of much assistance in realizing the ideal of life. It stands for a code of Sādhanā for attaining the knowledge of the self, the twenty-four Tattvas, ten senses of perception and action, five Prānas, mind, buddhi, cit and Ahāṅkara. Besides the Tantras discuss among other Sādhana, the method of initiation, sitting postures, paths of yoga, worship of deity, meditator and siddhis. Tantras discuss the centre of energy known as chakras in the body of human beings. They are concerned with the Parā Vidyā, a knowledge of the ultimate Reality, responsible for the creation, maintenance and destruction of the world.

The tantric religion is as old as any other form of Religion. It must have undergone a tremendous change while passing through the stages. In fact the ritual side of the Vedas and the practical Kriyas of the Mahayanists for the attainment of spiritual upliftment constitute the present tantras. The extent tantric texts are later in forms, though their contents may go to pretty old times.

The tantras are considered by their adherents as Śāstra supreme for the current age of Kali, when mankind is living under a heavy load of Adharma, untruth and unrighteousness. Its not practicable in this age to practise all the rituals and austerities enjoined in the Vedic system. Neither the individual capacity of man nor the condition of the collective environment of modern societies is favourable to their practice. For the people of this age the Tantra Shāstra provides the most practicable and sure guide for the achievement of the goal of life. These preach not only for liberation from the hold of ignorance. Mukti, the basic usages for self-existence, self-affirmation and the delight of fulfilment of worldly enjoyment-Bhakti :

The Tantras have certain special features which give it a wider appeal than the systems of the Veda. Firstly tantrism is catholic and open to all irrespective of their class or sex. No one is excluded from the shelter of Tantras because of his birth. Even a chandala has a right to be initiated.

The Mahānirvāṇa Tantra declares, "That he is a low Kaul who refuses to initiate a chandala or a yavana into the Tantric Dharma or the Kaula Dharma, considering them to be inferior or a woman, out of disrespect for her, goes the downword way. All the human beings in this world, from the Vipra to the inferior castes are compitent to be initiated into Tantrism. Women are as eligible for initiation as men are. Not only that, the Tantras lay down that initiation taken from a lady-guru is more effective than from a man-guru because the woman represents directly the world mother who is the object of all worship.

Secondly, one need not, have to undergo long periods of training as insisted in the Vedic lines of discipline. Not many people are in a position to observe the various Vratas and equip themselves with psychological purity, mental discrimination and detachment. The tantras do not pitch so high in demands. These recognise that men are in all stages of development. There are different natures and temperaments and each is to be led by the path natural to him. For this purpose they classify people into three broad clases viz. Pashu, Vira and Divya or Kaula. The tantras prescribe different modes of description for each of them. Their times of progress—āchāra-differ accordingly. However, their types are not fixed, it is possible by one's effort and progress, to pass into the next higher and eventually the highest stage even to one who starts at the lower end of Pashubhava.

Further the Tantra shāstra is described as a Pratyaksha

Śāstra which, like medicine and astrology, is verifiable at every step. It is a rational science based upon a doctrine or a set of doctrines which lends itself to be tested by any person at any stage. Only faith in the śāstra is not indispensable "Practice what we say and see the results yourself, then faith will be born says the Tantra.

There is, besides, a greater stress here on the Sādhana viz. the practical side of the Śāstra than knowledge viz. Jñāna. Knowledge is of course indispensable but there is needed a discipline which readies the system, a sādhanā with its outer and inner ramifications which prepare and would all the parts of a sādhanā to the utmost degree of receptivity of siddhis and Jñāna. The Tantras provide for a graded system of Sādhana according to the competence of the person. Pujā, external worship with various upachāras, like flower, incense, offering etc, is the first stage. Next comes Japa of a Mantra, according to prescribed procedure. Then Dhyāna-Meditating on the form of god denoted by the Mantra, Japa should be made in the mind. The last and the highest is the Brahma-Bhāva or Brahma-Sādhana, attainment of the knowledge and feeling that one is Brahman and all is pervaded by Brahman only.

The Tantras are remarkable also for another reason. They do not ignore the claims of the earth here and preach flight to the heavens of bliss elsewhere. For a Tantrik this world here is as real as the worlds elsewhere. All are manifestations of the one Śakti, one divine. If the Divine is real and can be the sole object of our seeking, equally real is the world manifested by the divine, and to realise its full meaning is the purpose of our human birth. The tantras declare that the universe is not an illusion: it is an expression of Brahman. It is the material and the field for Sādhana, Rightly perceived it rewards, not veils Brahman.

The Tantras are many, but the essence of their wisdom and teaching is given in the Mahanirvana Tantra. It is said that this Tantra is to all other Āgama as Śiva is there to all other gods. The Mahanirvana Tantra, as now available consists of over 2500 verses in fourteen chapters. It is in the form of replies given by the lord Śiva to the Devi Parvati, On Mount Kailash, in answer to her urgent queries regarding the most appropriate Śāstra for men in the Kaliyuga. These 14 chapters, it is said, constitute only a third of the full text of the Tantra. The remaining portions not being available for publication. In his edition of this tantra, Sir John Woodruffe refers to a complete manuscript about 500-600 years old lying with Nepalese Pandit, who prohibited John woodruffe to publish the later portions of this Tantra. However, even the first part that is printed covers a wide field of the inner and outer life of the individual and his society. Written in simple language the verses have been commented upon by swami Hariharanand, an eminent Tantric scholar of repute.

The instruction begins on the high note of the Supreme reality viz that in Brahman. He is one without a second, who is the lord of all, everflow and self manifest, the goal of all roads in life and afterlife. He is, declares the Tantra, the 'Cause of all beings, the manifestations of whose creative energy in the three worlds is called Brahman, By his will Viśnu protects and Śiva dissolves it. Indra and all other guardian deities of the world depend on him and hold rule in respective regions under his command. Through fear of Him the wind blows, the sun gives heat, the clouds shower seasonable rain and trees in the forest flower. (MNT. II 40-44)

The Brahman is to be meditated upon and invoked. For that purpose the Mahanirvana gives the Mantra, 'Om Sac-chit-Ekam-Brahma for this Mantra, say the Tantra, there is no need of the normal precautions or is necessary to go the usual Sanskāras. It is enough if it is received from a competent guru. It is said that the presiding deity of the Mantra is the omnipresent, eternal, inscrutable, formless, and ineffable Brahman. This is the Mula Mantra around which the worship of Brahman or Brahma-Sāadhanā built up as described in the text of M.N.T. The Brahman, however, can be approached not merely as the lord, Parmeshwar, but also as parmeshwari, the Supreme Śakti. For she is none else but himself in another poise.

She is the matrix of all that exists. Whatever there is in this world of things which have and are without Motion, from Mahat to an atom, owes its origin and is dependent on Śhakti, the Parmeswari.

In common with many other texts in the tantric literature the Mahanirvana declares.

त्वमाद्या सर्वविद्यानामस्माकमपि जन्मभूः ।
 त्वं जानासि जगत्सर्वं न त्वां जानाति कश्चन ॥ 12 ॥
 त्वमन्नपूर्णा वाग्देवी त्वं देवी कमलालया ।
 सर्वशास्त्रस्वरूपा त्वं सर्वदेवमयी तनुः ॥ 14 ॥
 त्वमेव सूक्ष्मा स्थूला त्वं व्यक्ताव्यक्त-स्वरूपिणी ।
 निराकारापि साकारा कस्त्वां वेदितुमर्हति ॥ 15 ॥
 उपासकानां कार्यार्थं श्रेयसे जगतामपि ।
 दानवानां विनाशाय धत्से नानाविधास्तनुः ॥ 16 ॥

The Śakti Mantra is expected to be used in the practice of Śakti-Sādhnā with Kulachara rites with five Makaras. It is only when one rises and functions as a representative of the Śakti that one can truly enter into the spirit of the Sāadhanā and perform fruitfully. It is an important part of the ritual to burn up the sinful inclinations of the body. i.e. to burn the Pāpa-Purusha before stepping into the central ritual with a new Deva-body.

देहं नवीनं देवतामयम्' ।

As we approach the end of the last chapter the tone of the teaching changes. There is a notable shift of emphasis from ceremonial worship and religious rites to an inner-self-knowledge, to the necessity of an inner discipline to gain the freedom of the soul. The Tantra says :—

आत्मज्ञानमिदं देवि परं मोक्षैकसाधनम् ।
 जानन्निहैव मुक्तः स्यात् सत्यं सत्यं न संशयः । XIV-135
 कुलाचारेण देवेशि ब्रह्मज्ञानं प्रजायते ।
 ब्रह्मज्ञानयुतो मर्त्यो जीवन्मुक्तो न संशयः ॥ IV-21
 त्वं सर्वरूपिणी देवी सर्वेषां जननी परा ।
 तुष्ट्यां त्वयि देवेशि सर्वेषां तोषणं भवेत् ॥ IV 24

I am very happy to present in the hands of devotees of Śakti and the scholars of Śaktism this edition of Mahanirvan Tantra with woodroffe's English Translation. It is one of the celebrated Tantra giving us full detail of the Śakti-worship and the Brahma-Jnāna. Mostly the other Tantras give us the minute details of Sakti-worship without the identification of Brahman. But this Tantra is peculiar stressing on Śakti-sadhanā as well as Brahma-sādhnā. I congratulate Shri Subhash Jain for this new edition in a new get up. May Śakti or Parameśvarī bless him for more good publications. In the end I pray to Parameśvarī to bless all people including me.

INTRODUCTION

The Indian Tantras, which are numerous, constitute the Scripture (Śāstra) of the Kaliyuga, and as such are a voluminous source of present and practical orthodox "Hinduism". The Tantra Śāstra is, in fact, whatever be its historical origin, a development of the Karmakāṇḍa (using that term in the general sense of ritual section of the scripture), promulgated to meet the needs of that age. Śiva says : "For the benefit of men of the Kali age, men bereft of energy and dependent for existence on the food they eat, the Kaula doctrine, O auspicious one! is given" (Ch. IX, verse 12). To the Tantras we must therefore look if we would understand aright both ritual, yoga, and sādhana of all kinds as they exist to-day, as also the general principles of which these practices are but the objective expression.

Yet of all the forms (if Indian Śāstra, the Tantra is that which is least known and understood, a circumstance in part due to the difficulties of its subject-matter and to the fact that the key to much of its terminology and method rests with the initiate. The present translation is, in fact, the first published in Europe of any Indian Tantra. An inaccurate version rendered in imperfect English was published in Calcutta by a Bengali editor some twelve years ago, preceded by an Introduction which displayed insufficient knowledge in respect of what it somewhat quaintly described as "the mystical and superficially technical passages" of this Tantra. A desire to attempt to do it greater justice has in part prompted its selection as the first for publication. Another reason for such selection is that this Tantra has been the subject of Indian Commentary and Bengali translation. This Tantra is, further, one which is well known and esteemed, though perhaps more highly so amongst that portion of the Indian public which favours "reformed Hinduism" than amongst some Śākta Tāntrikas, to whom, as I have been told, certain of its provisions appear to display unnecessary timidity. The former admire it on account of its noble exposition of the worship of the Supreme Brahman, and in the belief that certain of its passages absolutely discountenance the orthodox ritual. Nothing can be more mistaken than such belief, even though it be the fact that "for him who has faith in the root, of what use are the branches and leaves". This anyone will discover who reads the text. It is true that, as Ch. VII, verse 94, says: "In the purified heart, knowledge Brahman grows," and Brahmajñāne samutpanne kṛtyākṛtyaṅ na vidyate. (When Brahman knowledge has arisen there is no longer distinction of what should or should not be done.) But the statement assumes the attainment of Brahmajñāna, and this, the Śāstra says, can be attained, not by Vedāntic discussions nor mere prayer, after the manner of Protestant systems of Christian worship, but by the Sāadhanā which is its main subject-matter. I have referred to Protestant systems, for the Catholic Church possesses an elaborate ritual and a sāadhanā of its own which is in many points strikingly analogous to the Hindu system. The section of Tāntrikas to whom I have referred are, I believe, also in error. For the design of this Tantra appears to be, whilst conserving commonly-recognised Tāntrik principles, to secure that, as has sometimes proved to be the case, they are not abused. Pārvatī says (Ch. I, verse 67): "I fear, O Lord! that even that which Thou hast ordained for the good of men will, through them, turn out for evil."

*Hitāya yāni karmāni kathitāni tvayā prabho
Manye tāni mahādeva viparītāni mānave.*

It is significant, in connection with these observations, to note that this particular Tantra was chosen as the subject of commentary by Śrīmad Hariharānanda Bhāratī, the Guru of the celebrated Hindu "reformer," Raja Ram Mohun Roy. As to this see Chapter V of "Śakti and Śākta".

The Tantra has been assigned by one of my informants to the division known as Viṣṇukrāntā and the eclectic Vilāsa Sampradāya. According to the Mahāsiddhasāra it belongs to Rathakrāntā. It was first published by the Ādi-Brāhma-Samāja in 1798 Śākābda (A.D. 1876), and was printed in Bengali characters, with the notes of the Kulāvadhūta Śrīmad Hariharānanda Bhārati under the editorship of Ānandacandra Vidyāvāgīśa. The preface to this edition stated that three MSS., were consulted; one belonging to the library of the Samāja; the second supplied by Durgādāsa Caudhurī, and the third taken from the library of Raja Ram Mohun Roy. This text appears to be the basis of subsequent publications. It was again printed in 1888 by Śrī Kṛṣṇa Gopāla Bhakta since when there have been several editions with Bengali translations, including that of Śrī Prasanna Kumāra Śāstrī. The late Paṇḍit Jīvānanda Vidyāsāgara published an edition in Devanāgarī character, with the notes of Hariharānanda; and the Veṅkateśvara Press at Bombay have issued another in similar character with a Hindi translation.

The translation published is that of the first part only. It is commonly thought (and was so stated by the author of the Calcutta edition in English to which I have referred) that the second portion is lost. This is, however, not so, though copies of the complete Tantra are rare enough. The full text exists in manuscript, and I hope that an opportunity may some day be given of publishing a translation of it. I came across a complete manuscript some two years ago in the possession of a Nepalese Paṇḍit. The exact date of the MSS., I forget. It was about Śākābda 1,300 or say some 500 years old. He would, however, only permit me to make a copy of his manuscript on the condition that the Ṣaṭkarma Mantras were not published. For, as he said, virtue not being a condition precedent for the acquisition of siddhi in, that is, power to work, such Mantras, their publication might enable the evilly disposed to harm others, a crime which, he added, was, in his own country, where the Tantra Śāstra was current punishable by the civil power. I was unable to persuade him even with the observation that the mere publication of the Mantra without knowledge of what is called the Prayoga (which cannot be learned of books) would in any case be ineffectual. I could not give an undertaking which would have involved the publication of a mutilated text, and the reader must therefore for the present be content with a translation of the first part of the Tantra, which is generally known, and has, as stated, been several times printed. The incident has further value than the direct purpose for which I have told it. There are some to whom "the Tantra," is "nothing but black magic," and all its followers are "black magicians". This is of course absurd. In this connection I cannot avoid interposing the observation that certain practices are described in Tantra which, though they are alleged to have the results described therein, yet exist "for delusion". The true attitude of the higher Tāntrika is illustrated by the action of the Paṇḍit who, if he disappointed my expectations, at any rate by his refusal afforded an answer to these too general allegations.

The second portion of the manuscript in his possession contained over double the number of Ślokas to be found in the first part here published.

The edition which has been used for the translation is that edited and published at Calcutta by Śrī Kṛṣṇa Gopāla Bhakta in Caitra 1295 Bengali era (April, 1888), with Commentary of Śrīmad Hariharānanda Bhāratī, and with additional notes by the learned and lately deceased Paṇḍit Jaganmohana Tarkālaṅkāra. A new edition of the same work has been published with further notes by the latter's son, Paṇḍit Jñānendranātha Tantraratna since deceased.

This valuable Commentary alone is not, however, suitable for the general reader; for it assumes a certain amount of knowledge on his part which he does not possess. I have accordingly, whilst availing myself of its aid, written my own commentary. For the first edition I also wrote an Introduction explaining certain matters and terms referred to or presupposed by the text which, as they required a somewhat more extended treatment, could not be conveniently dealt with in the footnotes. Some of the matters there explained were, though common and fundamental, seldom accurately defined. Nothing, therefore, was lost by a re-statement of them with an intention to serve such accuracy. Other matters were of a special character, either not generally known or misunderstood. The Introduction, however, did not profess to be an exhaustive treatment of that with which it dealt. On the contrary, it was but an extended note written to help some way towards a better understanding of the text by the ordinary reader. Since however the date of the first edition I have published a number of works on the Śāstra both of a popular and technical nature. These more fully deal with the matters treated of in the former introduction which is therefore no longer needed.¹ To the reader who would understand this work I would recommend the books "Śakti and Śākta" where in a popular manner the author has explained the doctrine and ritual of the Śākta Tantras of which the present volume is one; "The Garland of Letters" (Varṇamālā) dealing with "Sound" (Śabda) and the technique of Mantra which forms so important a part of the Tantraśāstra that its other and common name is Mantra-Śāstra; and the "Serpent Power," which has as its subject Yoga and in particular that portion of it which is done by the arousing of Kuṇḍalinī Śakti, famous in all Tantras. The reader who desires to come into the closest contact with the Indian written spirit in these matters will find what he wants in the two volumes "Principles of Tantra"² under which title I have published a translation of the Tantratattva by Pandit Śivacandra Vidyārṇava. Other works on the Tantraśāstra which I have published will be found in the advertisement at the end of this book. Further ritual detail is given in the English Introductions to my series of "Tantrik Texts". There are, however, some matters in the Śāstra or its accompanying oral tradition which the reader must, and if disposed thereto will, find out

1. Since published as "Introduction to Tantra Śāstra" Fourth Edn., 1963.

2. Now published in one volume Third Edn., 1960.

for himself. This, too, is implied by the saying in this Tantra that it is by merit acquired in previous births that the mind inclines to Kaula doctrine (Chapter VII, verse 99). However this may be, no one will understand the Śāstra who starts his inquiry with a mind burdened with the current prejudices against it, whatever be the truth some of them may possess by reason of actual abuse of Śāstric principles. I have taken advantage of the present edition which supersedes the last to correct mistakes and to improve the translation generally. Working in a new field it is difficult to escape error.

In conclusion, I wish to thank my Indian friends for the aid they have given me in the preparation of this and other kindred works, and to whom I am indebted for much information gathered during many pleasant hours which we have spent together in, the study of a subject of common interest to them and myself. The Tantras generally are in comparatively simple Sanskrit. For their rendering, however, a working knowledge of their terminology and ritual is required, which can be only fully found in those to whom it is familiar through race, upbringing, and environment, and in whom there is still some regard for their ancient inheritance. As for others, they must learn to see through the Indian eye of knowledge until their own have been trained to its lines of vision. In this way we shall be in the future spared some of the erroneous presentments of Indian beliefs common in the past and even now too current.

1. Bhārati says that Sadāśiva of limitless power (Ameyaśakti) after having framed the Six Āmnāyas (see Woodroffe's Śakti and Śākta) was moved by the Mother, the Ādiśakti, to reveal this Tantra which is mighty and the Bridge across the Ocean of Kula (Kulavārīrāśi). When the Kali age, the uprooter of all acts of merit and the instigator of endless hateful sins, commenced then Pārvaṭī, the Mother, became anxious for the salvation of men who are averse to meditation upon the Supreme (Paramātmā) and other religious practices and on the other hand are addicted to sinful acts. She therefore questioned Śiva who abides on Mount Kailāsa concerning the means whereby they may be saved.

1. Hence the Mountain Kailāsa—the residence of Śiva—is called Gaṇa-parvata (frequented by troops of Spirits), because peopled and surrounded by enormous hosts of attendant Spirits and Deva-yoni begotten by the Deva (Devas eva yoniḥ—nidāna-bhūtāḥ—yasya), who are, according to the definition of the Amara-kośa, Vidyādhara, Apsarā, Yakṣa, Rākṣasa, Gandharva Kinnara, Piśāca, Guhyaka, Siddha, and Bhūta.
2. Beneficent Deva-yoni of great purity, possessing the eight magical powers (Siddhi), inhabiting, according to soem, the Bhuvar-loka. To them (according to the Gāyatrī Tantra, chap. x) Gaṇeśa first preached the Tantras after he himself had received them from the mouth of Śiva.
3. Celestial dancers, singers, and bards or panegyrists of the Devas.
4. Deva-yoni, who, according to the Viṣṇu Purāṇa, were sons of Brahmā, “born imbibing melody”; celestial musicians and choristers, who play and sing at the banquets of the Devas belonging, together with the Apsarās—their wives—to Indra’s heaven.
5. The Vināyakas. Aspects and followers of Gaṇeśa, one of whose names is Gaṇa-pati.

It was there that Pārvatī,¹ finding Śiva, Her gracious Lord,

1. Spouse, or Śakti, of Śiva, so called as being the Daughter of Parvata, the Mountain (Himvat, Himālaya, that which has, or is, the abode of snow). Hence she is called Giri-jā, Giri-sutā, Haimavatī.

in mood serene, with obeisance bent low and for the benefit of all the worlds questioned Him, the Silent Deva,¹ Lord of all things movable and immovable,² the ever Beneficent³ and ever Blissful One,⁴ the nectar of Whose mercy abounds as a great ocean, Whose body is Pure Sattva Guṇa,⁵ He Who is white as camphor and the jasmine flower,⁶ the Omnipresent One, Whose raiment is space⁷ itself, Lord of the poor and the beloved and

1. Because then observing the vow of silence (Mauna-vrata), Deva=luminous One. Devam=Dīptimantam (Bhārati).
2. The organic and inorganic world. He is Carācarajagadguru, that is, the Father (Pitā) of all that move and are motionless.
3. Sadāśiva, the Ever Gracious One from whom all that is good and auspicious issues.
4. Sadānanda: He who is all-bliss and who is the delight of the good (Sat).
5. Śuddha-sattva-maya—that is, whose body is predominantly composed of the first of the three Guṇas or qualities in things, Sattva, Rajas, and Tamas. And so Śiva is stated to be Sāttvika. The Guṇas are never disassociated. Rajas and Tamas are always operating in relation to Sattva but here Sattva is predominant (Sattva-pradhāna). In the experience of Parameśvara during cosmic life all is presented (this is Sattva). Sattva goes on (this is the effective force because nothing is veiled or suppressed in Īśvara Experience. He is Sarvajña and Sarvavit. Still everything may be veiled during Laya or Cosmic Suṣupti, so that there is a tendency to veiling. Here Śiva is referred to as the Supreme Lord, in His Sattva aspect, called Sadāśiva, the Cause of Release, the Conferrer of Blessing (Anugrahada), the ever Blissful One (vide post), and (later) Jñānamaya. Śiva, in His Sāttvika quality, is also called Mr̥ḍa (Happiness) in the Mahimnaḥ-stava. He has other aspects (see post).
6. Kunda (Jasminum multiflorum or pubescens). Similar descriptions of the Deva to that which follows are found in almost all the Tantras, as in Śāradā-tilaka (chap. xviii) The Nibandha Tantra describes Him as of a vermilion colour (Sindūra-varṇa): "I salute Īśa, gem-crowned, Whose head ornament is the shining beauty of the Moon, with smiling lotus-face, from Whose forehead on eye looks forth; Whose body is beautified by bright ornament; Who, holding a trident and Ṭaṅka, places the palm of His hand on the high and rounded breast of His Beloved (Spouse), Who Herself places one hand on His left high and holds a red night-lotus (Kūvalaya) in the other." The night lotus, "the wife of the moon," is also generally white.
7. Exoterically, he is represented naked as the Yogīs are. In the esoteric loving Master of all Yogis,¹ Whose coiled and matted hair² is wet with the spray of Gaṅgā³ and (of Whose naked body) ashes are the adornment⁴ only; the passionless One⁵ Whose neck is garlanded with snakes and skulls of men, the three-eyed One,⁶ Lord of the three worlds,⁷ with one hand wielding the trident and with the other bestowing blessings⁸; easily appeased, sense he is Digambara, or "clothed with space," in the sense that He is Omnipresent. The infinity of space or the points of the compass clothe Him.

1. Ascetic followers of, and adepts in, the Yoga doctrine. Śiva, by his great austerities, is the Lord and Exemplar of all ascetic. He is Yogindra. Yoga is Paramātmacintana (Bhārati). Yogī-vallabha which is rendered "beloved of Yogis" may also mean "He whose loved ones are the Yogis".
2. Jaṭā, as worn by ascetics in serpentine coils (jaṭājūṭa).
3. Hence, He is called Gaṅgā-dhara. When the Ganes descended from heaven He intercepted it by his dead, so that the earth might not be crushed by the weight of the falling stream. It is said that the Ganges was first held in the water-jar (Kamaṇḍalu) of Brahmā, then in the hair of Śiva, and lastly in the body of Jahnu, whence it is called the Jāhnavī (see Śaṅkarācārya's Gaṅgaṣṭakam in Hymns of the Goddess).
4. Vibhūti-bhūṣita, which Bhārati translated as in text, but, as pointed out (ed. Bhakta), Vibhūti may here also refer to the eight Siddhis which Śiva possesses, viz., Aṇimā, Laghimā, Prāpti, Prākāmya, Mahimā, Iśitva, Vaśitva, Kāmāvsāyitā. Vibhūti is also halo or aura.
5. Śānta (the tranquil) and Atīta (the transcendent), are aspects of Śiva. In man Śānta is he who has controlled his Antaḥkaraṇa. As Śruti says : "This fire is verily Rudra Himself; of Him there are two bodies, one fierce and the other gentle" (Taittirīya saṁhitā, 5-7-3)
6. Tri-locana : one eye (symbolically the inner eye of wisdom) being in the forehead. From this eye flashed the light which consumed the body of the Deva of Love—Kāma-deva—and at the expiration of a Kalpa, the Devas. According to Arian, the Indian Bacchus (Bhaga, or Śiva) was called Thriambus, possibly a corruptin of Tryambaka, "three-eyed". The Devī is called Tryambakī, because She is the Mother of the Three-Brahmā, Viṣṇu, and Rudra. And this also is the esoteric meaning of Tryambaka as applied to Śiva, the "Father of the Three" (see the Mṛtyuñjaya-mantra, chap. v, 211).
7. Tri-loka, i.e., The heavenly, earthly and nether world.
8. Triśūla-vara-dhāriṇam which Bhārati says may also mean "He who carries the excellent Triśūla" (trident).

Whose very substance is unconditioned Knowledge;¹ the Bestower of eternal Liberation,² unconditioned,³ from whom comes no Fear,⁴ Changeless, Stainless,⁵ One without defect,⁶ the Benefactor of all, and, the Deva of all Devas⁷.

What is that Thou sayest, O Thou Great Wise One² and Beloved of My heart, I will tell Thee anything, be it ever so bound in mystery, even that which should not be spoken of before Gaṇeśa³ and Skanda⁴ Commander of the Hosts of Heaven. What is there in all the three worlds which should be concealed from Thee? For Thou, O Devī, art My very Self. There is no difference between Me and Thee.⁵ Thou too art omnipresent. What is it then that Thou knowest not that Thou questionest like unto one who knoweth nothing.

1. It is Śiva, "the Ever-Auspicious," and Mahāśūnya who here speaks, voluntarily assuming form for the benefit of His devotees (see also verse 8 of Ānanda-laharī of Śaṅkarācārya, and verses 42-43 of Sureśvarācārya's Mānasollāsa, and Bhāskaraśāstra, Commentary on Lalitā-sahasra-nāma, v. 174).
2. Mahā-prājñe.
- 3-4. Both sons of Śiva, the first being the elephant-headed Deva (for Dhyāna, see Mantra-mahodadhi, chap. ii) who—according to the Gāyatrī Tantra (chap. x)—wrote down the Tantras at the dictation of Śiva; and the second Kumāra, or Kārtikeya, the War God and Leader of celestial army, who was begotten by Śiva at the request of Devas to destroy the Demon Tāḍakāśura, and so called because brought up by the six celestial Kṛttikās. In begetting Kārtikeya Pārvatī was unable to retain Śiva's seed, which was then thrown into Fire (hence called Kaumāra-tejaḥ, see ch. vi, 148 notes) Who, unable to keep it, threw it into Gaṅgā, who in turn threw it into a reed-forest, where Kārtikeya was born. Hence he is called "Reed-born" (Śara-janmā); and because he shamed Kāma-deva by his beauty, he is called Kumāra (see matsya Purāṇa). The reason why these two are referred to is to show the greatness of the mystery revealed. Beloved and powerful as they are they yet know it not.
5. Mama rūpā'si devī tvam na bhedo'sti tvayā mama : for in their ultimate ground both Śiva and Śakti are one. The former is the static aspect of the Supreme Consciousness (Samvit) and the latter its kinetic aspect as Creative Powers. Power (Śakti) and Possessor of power (Śaktimān) are one. It is a commonplace of the Śākta Tantras that there is no Śiva without Śakti nor Śakti without Śiva. In the Sanatkumāra Sam., speaking of devotion to Pārvatī, it is said : "Janārdhana (Viṣṇu) is thus in the form of Devī as well as in His own form, for the husband and wife being one, the only One is worshipped as two." Rūpa is form and function. Rūpyate rūpakriyāviśiṣṭa vidhiyate, iti, rūpā. They are one in the ground and one in the manifestation. Some read Mastyarūpā for Mama rūpā, that is, myself.

1. Sādhvī, fem. of Sādhu, good, virtuous, pure. The Devī-bhāgavata Purāṇa says : "Thou art praised as Sādhvī (the virtuous One) on account of unexcelled fidelity (to Thy Lord)." Also Lalitā-sahasranāma, v. 43, where the Commentator Bhāskaraṇya cites the Ācārya (Saundaryalaharī), 96 : "How many poets share the wife of Brahmā? Cannot every one by means of wealth become the lord of Śrī (wife of Viṣṇu)/ But, O Virtuous One (Sādhvī)! 2. Bhagavān—that is, one possessed of the six, Aiśvaryas : Śrī (asupiciousness), Vīrya (power), Jñāna (wisdom), Vairāgya (dispassion), Kīrti (glory), and Māhātmya (greatness). See Wilson's Viṣṇu Purāṇa, vol. v, p. 212. All these are in the Devī, Who is hence called Bhagavatī (see Devī-bhāgavata Purāṇa, Śakti-rahasya, Bhāskararāya, loc cit v. 65).

5. Brahmāntaryāminā, that is, He as the Supreme Brahman inspired Brahmā. The Sacred Scripture of the Hindus was communicated by the Supreme to, and revealed by, Brahmā, called in the Śrīmadbhāgavata "the Primeval Poet". The Śrīmadbhāgavata says : "Let the sage be pleased with Me, Who am the remembrancer of the sublime Śruti unto the mind of Aja (Brahmā), Who sent Brahmā, from Whose mouth issued the Word (Sarasvatī)" (Book II, chap. iv, verse 22). In the text Śiva is thus spoken of as the Supreme, The Veda is Brahman. Brahmā was not is Author, but Revealer (Bṛhannīla Tantra, chap. iv). It came out of Brahman as His breathing (Yāmala Tantra).

By the study of the Vedas, by Dhyāna and Tapas,¹ and the conquest of the senses, by acts of mercy² and charity³ men were of exceeding power⁴ and courage,⁵ industry⁶ and prowess,⁷ adherents of the true Dharma,⁸ good⁹ and truthful,¹⁰ and,

1. Meditation and austerities. The term Tapas is also used in a very wide sense such as here observance of the Cāndrāyāṇa and other rites which involve mortification of the body for self-discipline and worship generally. It is of three kinds, bodily (Śarīra), by speech (Vācika), and in mind (Mānasa). Each of these again may be Sāttvika, Rājasika or Tāmasika. Dhyāna is meditation on the supreme Spirit (Paramāma-cintana).
2. Dayā : that is the desire to relieve the distress of others without being moved thereto by hope of reward.
3. Dāna is gift to the deserving of money and other things honestly acquired by the giver, that is, they were not covetous.
4. Mahābalaḥ. Amara defined Bala=Sthaulya-sāmarthya-sainyeṣu, that is material or physical power or soldiery.
5. Mahāvīryaḥ or valour of which Medinī says : Vīryam prabhāvo Śukre ca tejaḥ-sāmarthyayorapi.
6. Mahāsattvaparaḥ : Sattva=Vyavasāya or industry.
7. Parākrama=Śaurya, might or prowess.

Having observed this, Thou didst make known on earth the Smṛti Scripture¹ which explains the meaning of the Vedas, and thus delivered from sin, which is cause of all pain, sorrow, and sickness, men too feeble for the practice of Tapas² and the study of the Vedas. For men in this terrible ocean of the world,³ who is there but Thee to be their Cherisher, Protector, Saviour, their fatherly Benefactor, and Lord?

1. Such as the Dharmaśāstra of Manu and other books on family and social duty prescribing for Pravṛtti-Dharma as the Upaniṣads reveal Nivṛtti-Dharma. Each of the four ages has its special Śāstra, differing presentments of the Truth revealed by Śruti : in Satya yuga, Śruti; in Treta, Smṛti; in Dvāpara, Purāṇa; in Kaliyuga the Āgama to Tantra Śāstra. See Tārā-pradīpa, ch. I, and Introduction to Principles of Tantra.

The Vedas have lost their power, the Smṛtis are forgotten, and many of the Purāṇas,³ which contain stories⁴ of the past, and show the many ways (which lead to Liberation), will, O Lord! be destroyed. Men will become averse from religious rites, without restraint, maddened with pride, ever given over to sinful acts, lustful, gluttonous, cruel, heartless, harsh of speech, deceitful, shortlived, poverty-stricken, harassed by sickness and sorrow, ugly, feeble, low, stupid, mean, and addicted to mean habits, companions of the base, thievish, calumnious, malicious, quarrelsome, depraved, cowards, and ever-ailing,⁵ devoid of all sense of shame and

1. The Fourth, or worst of the Ages. It is for this age that the Tantra Śāstra is prescribed. So it is said in the Kulārṇava Tantra :
 Kṛte śrutyudito dharmaś tretāyāṁ smṛti-sambhavaḥ.
 Dvāpare tu purāṇoktaḥ kalavāgamasammataḥ.
 In the Satya or Kṛta Age Dharma is as taught in Śruti. In Tretā Smṛti is followed. The Dharma of the Dvāpara Age is as spoken of in the Purāṇas and in the Kali Age it is as approved in the Āgama. That is these are the respective Scriptures for the Ages, differing presentments of the means for attainment of the one Truth which all Ages seek.

On which Viśvanātha Chakravartin's gloss is : "Men in this age are generally short-lived, yet, if they live a little longer, they care not to know about the Supreme Being. Where persons are somewhat active in this respect, yet they are very short of understanding, and therefore unable to understand the nature of the Supreme Being. Even if they be intelligent and endeavour to understand such things, they are unfortunate, and fail to secure the company of righteous men; and even if they do they are subject to disease, pain, and sorrow" (ed. They will be without faith or devotion,⁸ and will do Japa⁹ a and Pūja⁸ a with no other end than to dupe the people. They will eat unclean food and follow evil customs, they will serve and eat the food of the Śūdras, be dependent on others¹⁰ and lust after low women,¹¹ and will be wicked and ready to barter for money even their own wives to the low. In short, the only sign that they are Brāhmaṇas will be the thread¹² they wear. 1. See Introduction to Author's Principles of Tantra. The Āgama is that form of Tantra in which Śiva is the Guru and the Devī the Śiṣya (disciple), whilst in the Nigama the converse is the case. Gaṇeśa wrote down both these and gave them to the Siddhas. Sometimes the two terms are used in the same sense.
2. Tantrāṇi bhukti-mukti-karāṇi. Bhoga, as enjoyment, is of five kinds, pleasant sound (Śabda), pleasure of touch (Sparśa), the sight of beautiful things (Rūpa), the pleasure arising from the faculties of taste (Rasa), and smell (Gandha). The Tantra gives both Enjoyment and Liberation.

Sādhana¹ of both Devīs and Devas. By Thee, too, have been described many forms of Nyāsa,² such as those called Sṛṣṭi, Sthiti (and Samhāra).³ By Thee, again, have been described the various seated positions⁴ (of Yoga), such as that of the "tied"⁵ and "loosened" lotus;⁶ the Paśu, Vīra, and Divya classes of men,⁷ (the knowledge of which, leads to the attainment of Siddhi in the Mantras of the Devatās⁸.

1. Ritual worship, etc., see as to all the above Śakti and Śakta, and Garland of Letters.
2. A rite, as to which see Ibid.
3. Antar-māṭṛkā-nyāsa, which consists in mentally placing the Māṭṛkas in the six Cakras, is called Sthiti (existence, maintenance) Nyāsa. Bāhya-māṭṛkā-nyāsa is of two kinds—the external placing by voice and hand of the letters of the alphabet from A to Kṣa, which is called Sṛṣṭi (creation) Nyāsa; and the placing of letters in the reverse order from Kṣa to A, is called Samhāra (dissolution) Māṭṛkā.
4. Āsanas are positions in Yoga practice, as to which see Arthur Avalon's Serpent Power.
5. Baddha-padmasana.
6. Mukta-padmasana.
7. This refers to the three characteristic dispositions of men—Paśubhāva Vīra-bhāva, Divya-bhāva—as to which see Śakti and Śakta. Tarkā-lankāra refers the reader to Kaulāvalī (p. 34), Hara-tattvadīdhiti (p. 364) and Prāṇatoṣiṇī (p. 544, 2nd Ed.), also to Kaulikārcanadīpikā. The Bhāvacūḍāmaṇi and Sarvollāsa give these distinctions in greater detail.
8. Devatā-mantrasiddhidāh, that is, grant Siddhi or mastery in the Mantras of the Devatās. All men cannot worship alike, all men cannot realise the supreme experience by one and the same process. So different aspects of Divinity (Iṣṭadevatī) and forms of worship are prescribed by the Gurus to men of different temperaments. Thus the Kulārṇava Tantra says that the Guru must ascertain what the disciple is qualified for before he initiates him.

1. Latā-sādhana, the fifth Tattva. Latā, which litreally means a creeper, is a Tāntrika term for woman, who is thus thought of embracing man as the creeper clings to a tree. And so the Yoga-Vāśiṣṭha describes (Nirvāṇa Prakaraṇa, chap. xviii); Gaurī, the half of the body (Ardhāṅgī) of Śiva, "embracing Him as the Mādhavī creeper clasps the young Āmra-tree with Her bosom like a cluster of blossom, and her eyes resembling the lines of black bees fluttering in the summer sky." In Śākuntalam the Mādhavī is described as married to the Sahakāra (mango-tree).

Tarkālaṅkāra says that Latāsādhana is that Sādhana in which the Sādhaka is assisted by his Śakti. Rules relating to it are given in the Kaulāvalī, p. 29, Pranatoṣiṇī, p. 618, 2nd edition, Gandharva Tantra, p. 60. The Yoga method is different in Śivasamhitā, p. 75, also Haṭhapradīpikā and Yoga Cintāmaṇi.

2. Muṇḍa-sādhana, one of the Tāntrika Āsanās.
Muṇḍāsana is of differing kinds. The Sādhaka sits in manner enjoined over the head of a Caṇḍāla, or on the heads of a Caṇḍāla, a jackal or a monkey or on the heads of a jackal, a monkey, a snake and two Caṇḍālas or on a hundred heads. All these heads are put inside a raised mud platform on which the Sādhaka sits.
3. Śavāsana. This is another Tāntrika Āsana.
In Śavāsana in the Mantra method the Sādhaka sits on the corpse of a Caṇḍāla and does Japa of his Mantra (see Kaulāvalī, p. 52). In the Yoga method the Sādhaka lies on his back and practises Yoga according to the instructions of his Guru. See the account given in the Gheraṇḍa Samhitā, Haṭhapradīpikā.
4. Citāroha, a Tāntrika Āsana.
In Citāroha or Citāsādhana the Sādhaka sits on an extinguished but not purified pyre and does Japa of his Mantra in manner enjoined (see Kaulāvalī, p. 48).

2. In Smārta worship, or that prescribed by Smṛti, the worshipper (or his wife) must with his own hand collect the materials for his worship, and with his own hand cook his food, which he dedicates to the Deity. The meaning of the text is that in this Age this is impossible or difficult.
3. The follower of Smṛti (Paśu) should not at worship see the face of a Śūdra, or think of woman for his mind is weak.

He who in this Age¹ seeks salvation by ways prescribed by

1. Kali Yuga. See as to these verses Preface.

On this Tarkālaṅkāra observes as follows : What is the reason by the Vaidik Mantras were formerly fruitful but are no longer so? As a fact the prescribed fruit may be gained by the doing of Vedic rites and following the Vaidika ācāra as also by doing the rites approved in the Smṛtis, Purāṇas, Śaivācāra, Vaiṣṇavācāra, Dakṣiṇācāra, Vāmācāra, Siddhāntācāra and Kaulācāra. The Uttara Tantra gives the relative excellences of Vedācāra, Vaiṣṇavācāra, Śaivācāra, Dakṣiṇācāra, Vāmācāra, Siddhāntācāra and Kaulācāra, the highest beyond which there is nothing higher. (Each of these Ācāras is more excellent than that which precedes them—see also Kulārṇava, Ch. II, v. 7, 8). Of these Ācāras the first there are included in Paśubhāva. Dakṣiṇācāra is midway between Paśu and Vīra, Vāma and Siddhānta are in Vīrabhāva and Kulācāra, though it is in Vīrācāra, in its highest stage attains to Divyabhāva. The reason why the Paśubhāva is forbidden in this Tantra is that in the Kali age no one can fully observe the rules of others is like a thirsty fool who digs a well on the bank of the Jahnavi¹.

And he who, knowing My Dharma, craves for any other is as one who with nectar in his house yet longs for the poisonous juice of the Ākanda plant².

Vedācāra, Vaiṣṇavācāra and Śaivācāra. If this is not done then the Vaidika, Smārta, and Paurāṇik Mantras, rules and sarifices cannot bear any fruit. Who in the present day is able to observe Vedācāra? Who after his invetiture with the sacred thread lives in the family of the Guru rigidly observing the continent life (Brahmacarya) and who returning therefrom between the ages of 24 and 30 takes a wife and enters the life of a householder? Who again on his attaining the age of 50 years enters the stage of Vānaprastha? Do the Brāhmaṇas of the present day maintain themselves by what they earn by teaching or the performance of sacrifices? If (as is patent) the men of the present age are not observant of the injunctions (Śāsana) of the Vedas then how can they hope that the Vaidika rules will do them good? As a fact it is impossible to observe Paśubhāva. Thus no one can carry out the injunction which says that the Paśu should collect for himself leaves, flowers, fruits and water and should not look on a Śūdra or think of a woman. It is difficult to come across a pure Paśu who is not fallen by association with the wicked—with those who are fallen by keeping the company of Mlecchas, wine-drinking and other bad habits. On this account Śiva has said that there is no Paśubhāva. Therefore under present circumstances no fruit can be gained by the use of Vaidik Mantras and the like which are appropriate for Paśubhāva only. It is on this account that Śiva revealed the Āgamas for the salvation of men who have fallen from their Ācāra. At present there is no path to Liberation outside the Āgama.

He is One. He ever is. He is the Truth. He is the Supreme Unity without a second. He is Ever-full and Self-manifest.² He is Eternal Consciousness and Bliss³.

1. Viśveśa. That is the Director of all including Śiva himself. (Viśveśām asmadādinām sarveśām niyantā). Now why should doing good to all the pleasing to Him? The answer is that the Viśva (the universe or all, is in Him. Now how is it that you say that He is Viśvātma or Soul of the Universe. The answer is that the Viśva has its support on Him.
2. "Without a second"—that is, every creature is one of a class but the Supreme stands apart, and is unlike any other thing, and there is none other like Him. "Ever-full" (Sadā-pūrṇa), entire, whole undivided. "Self-manifest" (Sva-prakāśa), self-lustre. He has not to depend on any thing else for His manifestation, such as the Sun, Moon or other Energy. "He is the Truth," and all else is relative to Him unreal.
3. Bhāratī says that v. 34 establishes that the Paramātmā is alone Sat and all else Asat. It alone should be meditated upon and worshipped, since It is Reality, the pleasing subject of meditation and Cause of Liberation. The Lod is Sadrūpa, Sat, Being itself (Svabhāva) the one true Reality (Ekaḥ Satyaḥ). From this it is to be inferred that all else is Asat. The Text proceeds to prove this reality stating that He is Advaita

He is self-manifesting (Svaprakāśa) and not manifested as objects are by Sun, Moon or other Lights. Cf. Na tatra Sūryo bhāti, na candratāraṇam, etc. He is Sadāpūrṇa, the eternally whole, Sarvadā akhaṇḍa and the eternal Cit (Jñāna) and Ānanda.

1. Nir-vikāra. He is free of Vikāra which means deviation from the primary character (Prakṛti) of any thing. Prakṛter anyathābhāvaḥ vikāraḥ tadrahitah.
2. Nir-ādhāra. That which supports itself and is supported by nothing.
3. Nir-viśeṣa=Svāgatabhedarahita. Bheda or difference and distinction which marks finitized being is of three kinds, viz., intrinsic or Svāgata, such as the distinction which exists between the leaves and branches of the same tree and extrinsic which is Sajātiya, such as the distinction which exists between one kind of tree and another and Vijātiya, the distinction which exists between trees and things which are not trees. The Brahman is free of all Bheda.

Śrī Devī said :

O Deva of the Devas, great Deva, Guru of Bṛhaspati¹ himself, Thou hast revealed all Scriptures,² Mantra, and Sādhana,³ thereof; Thou hast also spoken of the Supreme Brahman who is higher than the highest and the Supreme Lord, by worship of Whom mortals attain both Happiness and Liberation. O Lord! how shall we please that Supreme Spirit, how O Deva! may we realise Him? What is the Dhyāna of and the observances⁴ relating to the Supreme Lord, the Supreme Self ? It is My desire, O Lord! to hear of the truth of all these from Thee. Speak, O Lord, in Thy mercy.

Listen, then, O Beloved of My life! to the most secret and supreme Truth, the mystery whereof, O propitious One, has nowhere yet been revealed.

That Brahman is known in ecstasy⁵ by those who look upon

1. Nirviśeṣa=Svāgatabhedabhinna. (See ch. II, 34 and notes.)
2. Sattāmātra=Kevalaparamārthasattvarūpa. The Supreme is pure Being.
3. Avānmanasagocara : that is, incomprehensible by mind and inexpressible in speech.
4. Asatrilokīsadbhānam. The Brahman in Its Svarūpa is the Sat which ever is in the existing changeable Asat or universe. Hariharānanda says that Asat is the appearance as true of that which is not so (asatyā mithyābhūtāyāḥ trilokyāḥ sadbhānam sadvaj-jñānam). The Svarūpa is the real in that it is the whole (Pūrṇa) and not the subject of change.
5. Samādhīyoga : Samādhī=Cittaikāgryaṁ=the state of one-pointedness of the Citta. Yoga=undivided devotion to the Lord together with full knowledge; or Samādhī=Parameśvara: Samādhīyate cittam asmin: Into whom the Mind or Citta is placed. Yoga=Samyagdarśana or complete knowledge.
Tarkālāṅkāra says that Laya-yoga is called Samādhī Yoga. In the six Āmnāyas six different Yogas are spoken of. In Pūrvāmṇāya it is Sāṅkhya-yoga; in Dakṣiṇāmṇāya it is Ekātma-yoga; in Paścimāmṇāya it is Unmanī-yoga; and in the sixth or hidden (Gupta) Āmnāya it is Sahajāvasthā. The aim of all the six Āmnāya Yogas is dissolution (Laya) in the Brahman. So it has been said that all the Yogas above mentioned denote Ātmā (Ekātma-vācaka). Śaṅkarācārya in his Yoga-tārāvalī says : "Sadāśiva has spoken of 120,000 kinds of Laya. That through Nāda is one of these and important (Nādānusandhāna-samādhi). Patañjali defines Yoga to be 'Citta-vṛtti-nirodhaḥ,' that is, stoppage of mental modifications." The commentator says that the Citta (mind) has five states, viz., Kṣipta, Mūḍha, Vikṣipta, Ekāgra and Samādhi : The first is due to the action of Rajoguṇa. The mind is restless roaming in all the directions. This state is antagonistic to Yoga. The Mūḍha state is due to the action of Tamoguṇa. In this state wicked acts prompted by lust, anger and the like appear right. This also is antagonistic to Yoga. The Vikṣipta state is due to the action of Sattva-guṇa. Now the mind inclines towards the delights of Heaven and other pure forms of enjoyment. This also conflicts with Yoga practice. Ekāgra is that state in which the mind is withdrawn from all other objects than that on which it is centred. This is helpful in Yoga practice. When the mind is thus made one-pointed (Ekāgra) Samādhi comes of itself. At that time the mind leaves hold of all external objects and becomes dissolved in the supreme Brahman which is supreme Bliss.

1. To whom friend and foe are one and the same.
2. Dvandvāṭita—that is, above, or unaffected by, the contraries, pain and pleasure, heat and cold, etc.
3. Nirvikalpa=Nānāvidhakapanā=śūnya. The mind is poised in the equilibrium of consciousness not thinking now of this, now of that.
4. Dehātmādhyāsa-varjita. Freed of the notion which leads one to believe the body to be the Self. That is, those who have freed themselves of the false notion (Adhyāsa) that the body is Ātmā or the Self. The Brahma-svarūpa is known to Paramahansa alone. Only those know it who are Yogīs to whom friend and foe are one, who are affected neither by pleasure nor pain, whose mind is in poise; free from now this thought, now that, who are devoid of the false notion that the body is Ātmā. This they achieve by concentration of mind and that complete and direct vision (Samyag-darśana) which arises from undivided devotion to the Lord.

2. That is, the same Brahman, who may be known in Its inner nature by the real or direct knowledge (Sva-rūpa-jñāna) of Self, may also be apprehended through the senses from Its manifestation in the created world. He here establishes the identity of Brahman in both its Svarūpa and Taṭastha aspects. And so Śiva says, that which is knowable by Svarūpa-Buddhi is also knowable through its external manifestations. Sādhana is for those who are seeking the latter. For those qualified to seek the Svarūpa Brahman are beyond the stage of Sādhana through which at one time or one birth or another they must have passed. Tarkālaṅkāra says: Although the Svarūpa Brahman known by Yogīs in Samādhi is one and the same as that which is known by external signs yet there is a difference of essential characteristics. The first is pure Consciousness (Anupahita-Caitanya) without creative activity (Kartṛtva). Such Brahman is neither Creator, Protector nor Destroyer.

Through this union there issued from the latter Brahmā, Viṣṇu, Śiva, Sāvitrī, Lakṣmī and Bhagavatī who in accordance with their respective Guṇas create, protect or withdraw the worlds. It is Brahman in this second aspect who is spoken of as the Creator, Protector, and Dissolver of the universe.

This is the Mantra. These words, when combined according to the rules of Sandhi, form a Mantra of seven letters.⁴ If the Praṇava be omitted, it becomes a Mantra of six letters only.

This is the most excellent of all the Mantras, and the one which immediately bestows Dharma,⁵ Artha,⁶ Kāma,⁷ and

1. Sat-Cit—that is, absolute Being and absolute Consciousness (as to the meaning of which term see Śakti and Śākta) and which with absolute Bliss (Ānanda) is the Brahman.
2. Ekam.
3. Om, the One Being Consciousness Brahman.
4. Sandhi is the rule of Sanskrit grammar by which final and initial syllables of words coalesce. Thus the words Om Sat Cit Ekam Brahma become the following seven letters, Om-sac-cid-ekam-Brahma, neither vowels, which, according to the Tantras, are Śaktis of the Consonants, nor Visarga, which they call Kīlaka, being regarded as separate letters.
5. Rectitude, religious merit.
6. Wealth, worldly prosperity.
7. Desire and its fulfilment.

Mokṣa.¹ In the use of this Mantra² there is no need to consider whether it be efficacious³ or not, or friendly or inimical,⁴ for no such considerations affect it.

1. Liberation.

The Caturvarga as they are called are the four aims of man and are Dharma, Artha, Kāma, Mokṣa. The first is both Law, natural, ethical, social and so forth and the Merit acquired by the observance thereof. It is meritorious action whereby man gains happiness in the world (since obedience to Law leads to that) and in heaven and is the groundwork of all further advance. Man should seek to know and observe Dharma and to live righteously. Artha is the means by which this righteous life may be maintained such as in the material sense money, lands, goods, food, drink and so forth. These means must be righteously obtained. Kāma is desire and its fulfilment. This must be a righteous desire for that which is not such is contrary to Law (Adharma). These three are known as the Trivarga. A man may renounce the world, but if he does not do so, he must seek his happiness by meritorious acts and desires and the means by which they may be achieved. Indeed it is said that all these should be equally cultivated and the man who is addicted to one only is unworthy: Dharmārthakāmāḥ samam eva sevyāḥ : Yo hyekasaktaḥ sa jano jaghanyaḥ. Thus the house-holder who is always engaged in ritual worship to the neglect of his worldly affairs is to be condemned. The fourth which with the other three constitutes the Caturvarga is Mokṣa or Liberation, the final end to which all sentient being trends. This is beyond the Heaven-world which is a transitory state. For Mokṣa is permanent. What is the nature of this final end is the subject of discussion. According to the views of this Tantra which is written from the Advaita standpoint it is the union in one identity of the individual (Jīvātma) and Supreme Spirit (Paramātmā) by the dispelling of that ignorance which supposes them to be different. The Trivarga constitute the path of enjoyment. Mokṣa according to some views is to be obtained by renunciation. According to Śākta teaching there is given to its followers both Enjoyment and Liberation. The world itself is the seat of Liberation (Mokṣāyate hi saṁsāraḥ, as the Kulārṇava Tantra says). Worship is of the supreme Yoni, the Cause of all, which in Its Svarūpa is Mokṣa and in Its manifestation, the field of enjoyment. That field gives Mokṣa also when the unity of both are known and action is according to Dharma and the injunction of the Śāstra. Hai yoni names te'stu yoga-mokṣa pradāyini (Sri-yoni-stava-rāja-kavaca).

2. As is shown by what follows.

There is no necessity for considering anything else.

friendly). Some letters and groups of letters are friendly, and some inimical to others (see Tantrasāra, p. 25). See next note.

1. Kula, Akula. Before initiation it is usual to ascertain whether the Mantra is Sva-kula or A-kula—that is, whether the Mantra is suitable to the disciple or not. For the procedure to be taken in order to ascertain this, see Kulārṇava-Tantra, Tantrasāra, p. 25; and see verse 88, chap. vii, post. To ascertain the suitability of a Mantra for a particular disciple various methods are adopted. To ascertain the friendly or inimical character of a particular Mantra for any particular disciple figures of Cakras such as A-ka-tha-ha and the like are drawn. The A-ka-tha-ha is a square with sixteen "Houses" in which the letters of the alphabet are grouped in a particular way. Another Cakra is drawn to ascertain whether a Mantra is Svakula or Akula. By the Rṇidhanī Cakra it is ascertained whether a particular Mantra is in the position of a debtor (Rṇī) or creditor (Dhanī). The former is acceptable.
2. What is here referred to are the Saṁskāras of the Mantra, not the ordinary Saṁskāras of the worshipper. The ten Mantra-saṁskāras are— (1) Janana, (2) Jivana, (3) Tādāna, (4) Bodhana, (5) Abhiṣeka, (6) Vimalīkaraṇa, (7) Āpyāyana, (8) Tarpaṇa, (9) Dīpana, and (10) Gupti. 2. Pulakāñcita-vigraha—literally, the hairs to whose body stand erect (from sensation of joy). This sensation, whether arising from joy or voluptuousness, is a Bhāva of the Alāṅkāra-śāstra.
3. Piṇḍa is cake made of rice, curd, honey, and various kinds of fruits, Tila seed, Tulasī leaf, offered on Kuśa grass to the ancestors (Pitṛ).
4. A non-sectarian Tirtha, or place of pilgrimage, where Hindus resort to offer at the shrine to Viṣṇu-pāda, Piṇḍa cakes and water to the spirits of their departed ancestors.
5. The religious ceremonies performed for the dead for the first time, on the eleventh day for Brāhmaṇas, thirteenth day for Kṣatriyas, sixteenth day for Vaiśyas, and for Śūdras on the thirty-first day after death, and repeated annually.

 2. Tīrtha, places of pilgrimage.
 3. Recitation of Mantras (vide Śakti and Śākta).
 4. The Homa, or Fire sacrifice, is one of the five Yajñas prescribed by the Śāstras. Clarified butter and other substances are poured into the sacred fire as an offering to the Devas, accompanied by Mantras, beginning with Om and ending with Svāhā. It is performed on special occasion, such as the investiture of the sacred thread, marriage, initiation, etc.

1. These and the following are dark, or unclean, or fearful spirits. Vetāla is a spirit attendant on Śiva (Demon presiding over corpses). In the Kālikā Purāṇa (chap. xlv) the Muni Aurva describes Vetāla and Bhairava as sons of Śiva by Gaurī, who had entered the body of Rāṇī Tārāvatī, wife of Rājā Candra Śekhara. Ceṭakas according to Hemacandra, are Deva-yoni who serve in Heaven. Piśācas are unclean Devayonis. Guhyakas are Deva-yonis, attendants of Kubera, Deva of Wealth, described in the Kāśī-khaṇḍa. Bhūtas are ghosts of all kinds, against which protective Mantras are used. A sample may be found in the Garuḍa Purāṇa, chap. cxcix.
2. There are two kinds of Mātṛkās, the beneficent eight Śaktis—Brahmāṇī Kaumārī, Vārāhī, Vaiṣṇavī, Māheśvarī, Māhendrī, Aindrī, and Yamī—and the Ḍākinī Mātṛkās, of terrific aspect and destructive disposition, such as Mukta-keśī, Smitānanā, Lola-jihvā, and others. The Yoginī Tantra (Eighth Paṭala) gives an account of the origin of the latter. At the dissolution, when nothing was left in Śiva but the five elements, He asked His Śakti to find Him a place for them, His own creation having been destroyed. Śakti said that the creation was Hers, and not His, for without Her, Śiva is but Śava (corpse). Śiva then went away in anger, and, going, westward, created out of the ashes of His body a demon of huge form. He then returned to Śakti, and took Her with Him to the demon. The latter, on seeing Śakti, was overcome by his lust for Her, and begged of Her to save his life by the gratification of his desire. Śakti assented if he could defeat Her in battle. It was then that Śakti threw out from Herself the terrific Mātṛkās, who are those referred to in the text.

1. That is, men, though phenomenally different, are in their ultimate and inner ground of being one. Therefore, a man who seeks to harm a Brahmapāsaka Sādhu harms himself.
2. Mantra-Caitanya is Caitanya Śakti, and is the name for the Jñāna of the presiding Deva (Adhiṣṭhātrī-devatā) of the Mantra. The "awakening" of the Mantra is in the consciousness of the Sādha. See Garland of Letters and Śakti and Śakta, by Sir J. Woodroffe.

Listen, then, O My Beloved! while I tell Thee of the meaning and awakening of Mantra. By the letter A is meant the Protector of the world¹; the letter U denotes Him who dissolves it²; and M stands for its Creator³.

1. Viṣṇu, and so also the commentator on Śaṅkarācārya, Ānandalahari says :—

Akāro Harirityāhurukāro Hara ucyaṭe,
Makāro Brahmanāḥ saṁjñā praṇavastu vai.

2. Śiva.
3. Brahmā, the creative Manifestation of the Supreme Brahman. The three letters A, U, M are the component parts of the Praṇava, which by the rules of Sandhi become "Om". This explanation is at variance with the Rudra-yāmala Tantra, which says that A is the letter of Brahmā, U that of Viṣṇu, and M that of Śiva. But the three are one—Ekā mūrtistrayo devā brahma-viṣṇu-maheśvarāḥ. The latter is perhaps the better interpretation.

Tarkālaṅkāra says Om is formed by the union A, U, M, of which the first is Viṣṇu, the second is Maheśvara and the third Brahmā. By the Praṇava these are known. The Gorakṣa-Saṁhitā says : "Icchā, Kriyā, Jñāna are Gaurī, Brāhmī, Vaiṣṇavī. The threefold Śakti is immanent in (abides in) the world. Beyond these is the Śakti (according to another reading, the Light—Jyotiḥ) Om." From the Praṇava which is the Svarūpa of the Ādyā Śakti, these three Śaktis have emanated for the purpose of Creation, Maintenance and Dissolution. These three Śaktis are Icchā, Kriyā, Jñāna. Icchā is Gaurī (Mahākālī). She, united with Maheśvara and associated with Tamo-Guṇa, dissolves. Kriyā Śakti is Brāhmī (Mahāsarasvatī). She, united with Brahmā and associated with Rajo-Guṇa, creates. Jñāna Śakti is Vaiṣṇavī. She, united with Viṣṇu and associated with Sattva-Guṇa, maintains. Here Caitanya associated with Mūlaprakṛti or Ādyā Śakti is the object of worship. It is Ādyā Śakti who divides Herself according to the three Guṇas and becomes Icchā, Kriyā, and Jñāna Śaktis. And Caitanya associated (Upahita) with Ādyā Śakti divides according to Guṇas into Brahmā, Viṣṇu, Maheśvara. Brahmā united with Sāvitṛī creates, Viṣṇu united with Mahā-Lakṣmī maintains and Maheśvara united with Gaurī dissolves the Universe. The Śaktis Icchā, Kriyā, Jñāna are but aspects

The meaning of Sat is eternal changeless Being; of Cit, Consciousness; and of Ekam, One without a second. Brahman is so called because It is everywhere.¹ Now, O Devī! I have given You the meaning of the Mantra, which grants the fulfilment of desires. The awakening of the Mantra² is the knowledge of Him, Who is the pervading Devatā of the Mantra, of the Ādyā Śakti, as Brahmā, Viṣṇu and Maheśvara are but aspects of the Turiya Brahman associated with (Upahita) Ādyā Śakti. The Praṇava therefore is expressive of Brahman as united with (Upahita) Mūlaprakṛti which is the state of equilibrium (Sāmyāvasthā) of the Guṇas. He is spoken of as Creator, Maintainer, Dissolver. Were Brahman not united with Prakṛti then there would be no activity (Kartṛtva) in Him and no Caitanya in Prakṛti. By mutually entering into one another Prakṛti. When separated they may both be called Jaḍa. The meaning of the Mantra here is that the Praṇava signifies the Caitanya-maya-brahman united with Ādyā Śakti.

1. Bṛhattvād Brahma gīyate lit. Brahman is so called because of Its greatness (Bṛhattva).
2. Mantra Caitanya (vide ante).

2. That is, the Praṇava (Om-kāra) is dropped, and the Bīja of any of the Devīs named is substituted.
3. Bhāratī reads it as "various kinds of learning, Māyā or prosperity in all quarters".

Thus the Mantra Airṁ Sat Cit Ekam Brhama bestows Learning, Hrīm Sat Cit Ekam Brahma bestows Siddhi in Māyā which according to Tarkālaṅkāra means actually Nirvāṇa-mukti and Śrīm Sat Cit Ekam Brahma bestows Prosperity. This verse as Bhāratī says indicates the various ways in which the Mantra Om Sat Cit Ekam Brahma may be practised. It may be recited as a whole with or without the Praṇava or it may be broken up into as many parts as there are words in it. Each again of these words may be used with or without the Praṇava or any two of them and so on. Tarkālaṅkāra adds that the Mantra may be varied by substituting each of the three Bījas above-names when the Mantra becomes a Vidyā. Eighty-five different forms of Mantra may thus be obtained.

After this, whilst reciting the Mantra Om or the Mūla-mantra,¹ Prāṇāyāma² should be performed thus : He should

1. Here it is "Om Sac-cid-ekam Brahma". In Śakti worship it may be the fifteen-syllabled Mantra (Pañca-daśī)— "Hrīm Śrīm, Krīm Ādyā Kālikā Parameśvarī Svāhā." Devī is Herself the Mūla-Mantra (Mūla-mantrātmikā) (Lalitā-sahasra-nāma, verse 36).

2. The description follows.

On Prāṇāyāma Tarkālaṅkāra says that the ordinary procedure is to close the right nostril with the right thumb. Air is then drawn in by the left nostril. Whilst this is being done repeat sixteen times the Mantra or its first letter, the Praṇava or the Māyā Bija. This is Pūraka. Then close left nostril also with the little and fourth fingers of the same hand (by this both nostrils are closed) and do Kumbhaka (retention of breath) doing Japa of the Mantra 64 times in manner aforesaid during such Kumbhaka. Then remove the thumb from the right nostril and exhale through it do Japa 32 times. This is Recaka (exhalation). This is the first Prāṇāyāma. The process is now reversed. Inhalation is done through the right nostril the left nostril being closed with the thumb of the left hand. This is the second Prāṇāyāma. Then a return is made to the first Prāṇāyāma which is the third Prāṇāyāma.

close the left nostril with the middle and the fourth finger, and then inhale through the right nostril, meanwhile making Japa¹ of the Praṇava or, the Mūla-mantra eight times.² Then, closing the right nostril with the thumb and shutting also the mouth³, make Japa of the mantra thirty-two times. After that gently exhale the breath through the right nostril, doing Japa of the Mantra the while sixteen times.⁴ In the same way he should next perform these three acts first with the right nostril, and then repeat the same process with the left nostril. O adored of the Devas! I have now told Thee of the method of Prāṇāyāma to be observed in the use of the Brahma-Mantra.

The Sādhaka should then meditate on the Supreme Brahman for the accomplishment of his desire as follows :

हृदयकमलमध्ये निर्विशेषं निरीहम्

हरिहरविधिवेद्यं योगिभिर्ध्यानगम्यम् ।

nirviśeṣaṁ nirīham

Then a return is made to the first Prāṇāyāma which is the third Prāṇāyāma. A complete Prāṇāyāma consists of these three. A man who is short of breath and unable to do it as above may practise it doing Japa of the Mantra a fourth of the above-mentioned numbers (that is, 4, 16, 8 instead of 16, 64, 32). He who is unable to do even this may practise Prāṇāyāma doing Japa for a fourth of the last mentioned period, (that is, 1, 4, 2). The rule relating to Prāṇāyāma with the Brahma Mantra differs in that the right hand is alone used and the Japa is 8, 32 and 16 for Pūraka, Kumbhaka and Recaka respectively.

1. Recitation of Mantra : see Śakti and Śākta.
2. This is Pūraka.
3. This is Kumbhaka.
4. This is Recaka.

Meditation¹

In the lotus of my heart I contemplate the Divine Consciousness,² the Brahman without distinc-

1. Dhyāna.

2. Caitanya=Cetanam (Bhāratī), also He who is Śabdabrahma as Praṇava (Tarkālaṅkāra).

Tarkālaṅkāra says : Brahman should be meditated upon in the Lotus of eight petals in the heart as if it were the flame of a lamp undisturbed by any breeze. How can He who is everywhere the same and undivided Consciousness (Cinmaya) be the subject of meditation in the limited form of a flame? Again the one Brahman reflected in Māyā appears as the various Jīvas, Devas, men, beasts, insects and so forth. If the Brahman be without distinction (Nirviśeṣa) why are there such differences as Deva, worm and so forth? The devas who are Ānanda-maya are the reflection (Ābhāsa) just as are the worms and moths. Then why are these differences perceived in the Nirviśeṣa Brahman? It is not unnatural to ask such questions. Brahman is omnipresent and the same everywhere. As the rays of the sun fall evenly in every part of the city of Calcutta so the lustre (Ābhāsa) of the Brahman rests on all things everywhere in the same manner. In this there is no difference. In Māyā are the three Guṇas and nothing else. Sattva by reason of its purity is capable of receiving and reflecting the Light. Tamas by reason of its impurity is unable to do so. In Rajas there are present partially the capacities of both. The rays of the sun fall on the earth on whitewashed buildings, on polished articles of furniture, on swords, mirrors and gems but shows more powerfully on the whitewashed houses than on the earth, on the polish than on the house, on the sword than on the polish, on the gem (sunstone) than on the mirror. Consciousness (Caitanya) resting on (Upahita) Mūlaprakṛti which is the Brahman is like the sun and our Buddhi is like the sunstone (Sūryakāntamaṇi), our senses are like the mirror, the body like the sword, the five Mahābhūtas, insects and the like are tions,¹ in whom are all powers², Knowable by Hari, Hara, and Vidhi,³ whom Yogīs⁴ approach in meditation, Him Who destroys the fear of birth and death,⁵ Who is Being,⁶ Consciousness⁶, the Root of all the three worlds.

like the earth. Each of these according to its degree of purity is capable of receiving the Light of Cidānanda in greater or less degree. In this way all things are in the Brahman which is Caitanya but it receives it according to its purity and receptivity. When the rays of the sun fall upon the sunstone it acquires like the sun the powers of burning. When the Light of Caitanya falls on Buddhi, the Buddhi is awake and works. Caitanya united with it (Upahita) in this way is called Vijñānamaya Puruṣa. It is this Puruṣa which does everything. It is He who by the instrumentality of the senses sees and hears and so forth. His acting through the senses (Indriyas) is called Jāgradavasthā. When the senses are dissolved in the Vijñānamaya Puruṣa and the latter is in the Purītat Nāḍī which is as it were the sheath in which the heart Lotus is, that state is called Svapnāvasthā. When the Vijñānamaya Puruṣa is in the state of sameness (Tādātmya-sambhandha) then the state is Suṣupti. The Dhyāna of Brahman detached from Māyā cannot however be had by this method because in that case no form attribute is apprehended. By Samādhi (yoga) alone can the Brahman (attributes) be directly realised (Sākṣātkāra). Brahman united with Māyā is thought of as lustrous (Tejomaya) because of such union. Although Itself undetached It can by reason of Māyā be thought of as detached. In this sense It dwells in the heart of every creature as it it were separate and individualised. By meditating on It is accomplished meditation on the collectivity of things (Samaṣṭi). The Dhyāna of Brahman should be done as above described or according to the rules of the Kulārṇava Tantra. There can be no worship of the detached Brahman. The latter can be realised by the power of Yoga alone.

1. Nirviśeṣam=in whom there are no distinctions, that is devoid of Svagata, Svajātiya, and Vijātiya bhedha (Tarkālankāra). The first being illustrated by the branches, leaves, flowers and fruit of one tree, the second by the difference between things of the same class such as a mango tree and a Bilva tree and the third the difference between things not of the same class such as a tree and a rock.
2. Nirīham= Nirākāṁkṣam=prāpta-samastaiśvaryam ityarthah. He who desires and is in need of nothing since in Him are all powers.
3. i.e., Viṣṇu, Śiva and Brahmā.
4. Adepts in yoga.
5. When He is known, the fear of death passes.
6. Saccitsvarūpam=He who ever is (Sadāsthāyī) and Jñāna. Sat=

Hear, O Maheśvarī the Hymn to Brahman, the Supreme Spirit, by the hearing whereof the disciple attains union with⁵ the Brahman.

1. This passage occurs in the Bhagavad-Gītā, chap, iv, verse 24. The Tāntrikas sometimes purify wine with this Mantra, called Saṁśodhana (purifying), the Arpaṇa being the Pātra, the Haviḥ being the wine, the Fire being the digestive fire, the sacrificer the Sādḥaka, and the Brahma-karma the rites of the Cakra. The Daṇḍins also use it before taking food. By the Mantra the Sādḥaka is taught to recognise the unity of all.
2. Here "Om Saccidekam Brahma". By 'fruit' is meant the merit of the repetition, etc.
3. So in the Bhagavad-Gītā Kṛṣṇa tells Arjuna that, whatever he does, he is to offer it to Him. Water is offered in the palm of the hand or in the Sruk. The Mantra of offering is Brahmārpaṇamastu "Be it for Brahman".
4. Kavaca, the protective Mantra, which is worn, contained in a metal case round the neck as an amulet. Kavaca means an armour, caot of mail.
5. Sāyujya, one of secondary states of Liberation, namely, Sālokya, Sārūpya, Sāmīpya, and Sāyujya.

Supreme Self or Spirit of Paramātmā is thought of as in the Sahasrāra Padma in the head, Supreme Lord or Parameśvara is object of meditation in the heart. Protector of the world or Jagatpātā, the Viṣṇu aspect, is invoked to protect the throat so that the Sādhaka may utter the sacred names and Mantras of his Iṣṭadevatā.
2. Paramātmā
3. Parameśvara.
4. Jagat-pātā.
5. Vibhu; Sarva-dṛk. As knower of all and of all generals the Lord is Sarvajña; as knower of particulars He is Sarva-vit.
6. Viśvātmā.
7. Cin-maya.

The Ṛṣi³ of this world-beneficent amulet is Sadāśiva; the verse is Anuṣṭup⁴, its presiding Devatā is the Supreme Brahman, and the object of its use is the attainment of Dharma, Artha, Kāma, and Mokṣa⁵.

For is he has truly realised that all is Brahman and has acquired a divine nature his acts will be such.

1. That is, the great Mantra is so efficacious that even if its user omits any rite enjoined by the Śāstras, and so commits Pratyavāya, it becomes no obstacle to him.

By the Sādhana¹ of this Dharma, O Great Devil! man must be truthful, conqueror of the passions, devoted to the good of his fellow-men, unaffected by what may happen, pure of purpose, free of envy and guile, merciful and pure of mind, devoted to the service and seeking the pleasure of his parents, a listener ever to things divine,² a meditator ever on the Brahman. His mind is ever turned to the search for Brahman. With strength of determination holding his mind in close control, he is ever conscious of the nearness of Brahman.

1. That is, Brahma-Puraścaraṇa. In the Puraścaraṇa of other Mantras there is a multiplicity of ritual. Some of these are dispensed with. Tarkālaṅkāra says that although in Puraścaraṇa of the Brahma-mantra there is no need for Kīlaka (concluding Mantra) and Kūrmacakra (arrangement of letters in compartments of a figure representing a tortoise) and the like, yet it is necessary to have a Vedī or altar. This should measure one cubit easy way. On it a jar should be placed in manner enjoined and full Pūjā should be done in the beginning and end and ordinary daily Pūjā during such time as the Puraścaraṇa lasts.

In the Sādhana of this great Mantra no other Saṅkalpa⁵ is necessary than the inclination of the mind thereto. In it what is enjoined is purity of disposition. The worshipper of Brahman, Oh Devī! should see Brahman in everything.

सर्वं ब्रह्ममयं देवि भावयेत् ब्रह्मसाधकः ।

न चाऽस्य प्रत्यवायोऽस्ति नाङ्गवैगुण्यमेव च ।

1. Mudrā, derived from mud=to please; the disposing in different ways of various part of the hands and the body. There are different kinds for different Devatās and for different purposes. See Śakti and Śākta.
2. Setu which literally means a dam, is ordinarily the Mantra Om, recited in the heart at the commencement and end of Japa, though the Setu may vary with the Devatā worshipped (see Śaktānanda-taraṅgiṇī chap. x) to prevent the fruits thereof escaping as a dam does in the case of water.
3. Kullukā is the doing of Japa a particular Mantra over the head before and after the Japa of the Mantra of any particular Devatā, see Prāṇatoṣiṇī, 2nd Ed., p. 247.
4. Caura-Gaṇeśa, one of the Tāmasik manifestations of Gaṇeśa. In this form he robs the worshipper of the fruits of his devotions. He is therefore placated before worship. But this, as the text points out, is unnecessary for the worshipper of Brahman, whom Caura-Gaṇeśa cannot harm.
5. Other ceremonies must be preceded by Saṅkalpa or resolve, the rule being: Manasā saṅkalpayet: Vācā abhilapet: Karmaṇā copapādayet. (Let there be resolve in mind, the expression of that resolve by word, and the carrying out of that expressed resolve by act.) This is not necessary in Brahman worship. The Saṅkalpa fixes the attention and directs and strengthens the will.

For by Brahman is meant Turiya Brahman united with Mūlaprakṛti and by Ādyāśakti is meant Mūlaprakṛti as united with Turiya Brahman. It is She who is worshipped under the different names of Māyā, Mahāmāyā, Kālī, Mahākālī and so forth. Brahman and Māyā are not separate entities. Could they be separated then Brahman bereft of activity (Kartṛtva) would be inert (Jadapadārtha) and Śakti without consciousness (Caitanya) would also be so. The relation between Brahman and Śakti is non-separateness (Abhinnābhāva) : that is, there can be no Brahman

Thou art the very Parā Prakṛti¹ of Brahman the Paramātmā,² and from Thee has sprung the whole Universe—O Śiva—its Mother³.

1. The Parā (Supreme) Prakṛti and Paramātmā or Supreme Consciousness are united as one.
2. Paramātmā. Bhāratī expalins the word as follows : Parama=he Who is posseses of the Supreme Māyā or Śakti; and Ātmā = He who pervades all things. Ātmā comes from the root At+man. At=to spread. He who spreads is He who pervades all things (Aṭati sarvaṁ vyāpnoti, iti, Ātmā). The Ātmā which is this is the Paramātmā (parameścāsau ātmā ceti Paramātmā).
3. On this verse Tarkālaṅkāra commetns as follows : Paramātmā and Parabrahman=Turiya Brahman beyond the three Puruṣas, viz., the Viśva, Virāṭ and Jāgrat state, the Taijasa, Hiranya-garbha and Svapna state, and the Avyākṛta, Prājña and Susupti state (Avasthā) of which states the Puruṣas are Abhimānī. Here Sadāśiva is describing Pārvaṭī who is an Amśa of Mūlaprakṛti inseparate from it. Turiya Brahman and Mūlaprakṛti are in direct immediate connection (Sākṣāt-sambandha, i.e. nothing intervenes—they are one immediately). The Sāmyāvasthā of the three Guṇas when at rest (Nidrāsthāna) or the Nirguṇa state=Mūlaprakṛti. On Kṣobha or distrubance of equilibrium of the Guṇas three arises from the Tāmasik part of Mūlaprakṛti Maheśvara and Mahākālī; from the Rājasik part Brahmanā and Mahā-sarasvatī, and from the Sāttvik part Mahāviṣṇu and Mahālakṣmī. These are not in direct connection with Parabrahman but only mediately so (Paramparā-sambandha) through the medium of the Guṇas. In Pralays all Guṇas are dissolved in Mūla-prakṛti when nothing else exists and as a consequence the eternal connection between Brahman and Mūlaprakṛti is established. At the time of Kṣobha of the Guṇas, the latter appear separately and Prakṛti takes on two aspects—the pure (Viśuddha) and non-pure (Malina). The first is Parā-Prakṛti, Vidyā, or Māyā and the second is Aparā-Prakṛti Avidyā or Ajñāna. The Caitanya to which is ascribed (Upahita) Parā-prakṛti is the omnipotent, omniscient Īśvara or Śiva, and the Caitanya to which Aparāprakṛti is ascribed is Ajñāna, Jīva. And so the Pañcadaśī says (I, 15-17) "Prakṛti which is Sattva-Rajas-Tamo Guṇa is of two kinds, being according to the purity or non-purity of Sattva (Prakāśātmaka) guṇa, Māyā or Avidyā. The Cidātmā reflected on Māyā and controlling Her is the Omniscient Īśvara. The Cidātmā reflected on Avidyā and subservient to it by reason of her diversity (Vaicitrya) becomes many as Jīvas.

1. Mahādadi, the Tatta Mahat, and the others of the Sāṅkhya-Philosophy. This word does not, as it sometimes supposed, mean "great" (mahat), but is derived from the Vedic "Mahas," or "Maghas," which means "Jyotiḥ" or "Light". (Sāṅkhya Darśana by Umeśa Candra Batavyāla.) Tarkālaṅkāra says : From Prakṛti originated Mahat-Tattva; from Mahat Ahaṅkāra : From Ahaṅkāra the eleven Indriyas and the five Tanmātrās and from the latter the five Mahābhūtas. These are the 24 Tattvas of the Sāṅkhya Darśana. Combination of substance (Yaugika sṛṣṭi) does not produce any new Tattvas. In the case of the earth and jar and gold and ornament there is no difference in substance. The process according to Tantra is extremely wonderful so much so that the knowing of it produces Divyajñāna. It is not possible however to explain it in a short compass. The Nyāya and Sāṅkhya are not so subtle as this. The philosophers differ but the Tāntrik doctrine conflicts with none. He who desires to know it and get thereby a glimpse of the Brahman should get instruction in the Uttara Āmnāya from a good Guru; he will then gain the highest end of man.

महदित्यादि। भूतान्तं पृथिवीपर्यन्तम्। सर्वकारणकारणम् सर्वेषां महदादीनां कारणानामपि कारणं निमित्तभूतम्।

1. The Maitrī Upaniṣad (v. 52) says : Tamo vā idaṁ agra āsīt : tatpara syāt : tatpareṇeritaṁ : viṣamatvaṁ prayāti : etad vai rajas : tadrajaḥ khalvīritam viṣamatvaṁ prayāti : etad vai sattvasya rūpaṁ : tat sattvaṁ eva īritaṅ rasaḥ.

Verily this was at first Tamas alone. It abode in the Supreme. Then being set in motion by the Supreme it passes into inequality (loss of equilibrium). This is Rajas. This Rajas being moved passes into inequality. Then is the form of (or condition which is) Sattva. This Sattva being set in motion there is Rasa (Rasa = Cidānandaprakāśa). On this Tarkālaṅkāra says that the word Tamas here means Mūla-prakṛti : that is at the time of Pralaya (Dissolution) Tamo-Guṇa retracts (Sañhāra) the whole world. Then Sattva-Guṇa as manifested is merged in Rajas and Rajas in Tamas which alone remains and then merges in Mūlaprakṛti. By this I understand him to mean that Rajas works to suppress Sattva which becomes latent to bring into full action Tamas when all manifestation ceases. Then before the beginning of the next "Creation" or Production (Sṛṣṭi) there is stir (Kṣobha) in the Guṇas of Prakṛti. Tamo Guṇa appears first : then Rajas : then Sattva. In the Sārada this Tamas has been called Śakti : cf. "Eternal Śiva is Nirguṇa and Saguṇa. The first is He who is Prakṛter anyah or the other of Prakṛti", that is, "He and She are one but here He is considered as other than Her. (Rāghava Bhaṭṭa says Prakṛteḥ is used in the genitive not ablative case). Saguṇa is He who is with Kalā (that is, Mūlaprakṛti). From Paramaśiva who is Saccidānanda and Sakala issued Śakti, from Śakti issued Nāda and from Nāda Bindu". Here the Paramaśiva who is united with Kalā or Mūla-prakṛti Śakti is Tamo Guṇa. Some also call it Mūla Ajñāna. By Nāda is meant Mahat-tattva which is threefold according to the Guṇas. These three Nādas are Avyakta Maheśvara, Avyakta Brahmā and Avyakta Viṣṇu.

This Universe, from Mahat,¹ down to the gross elements,² has been created by Thee, since Brahman, Cause of all causes, is but the efficient Cause³.

Yoginī is She who shines therein (see commentary to v. 2, ch. IV, Yoginīhṛdaya). That commentary says that Yoginī is Tripura-sundarī who is Svasamvit. Her redness is Her Vimarśa.

According to the differences in place, time, and capacity of the worshippers I have, O Devī! spoken of Sādhana suited to the mode of life governing them and their dispositions².

1. By and of which the universe is created.
2. All men are not to follow the same form of Sādhana; as men differ in their character and ability so does the Sādhana. It is useless to prescribe a high Vedāntik Sādhana for an ignorant and untrained intellect, what is prescribed for it is what it can understand and carry out. There are therefore differences in Ācāra, that is, the Rules governing conduct, way of life such as Veda, Vaiṣṇava and Śaiva Ācāras. There are also differences of disposition (Bhāva) namely Paśu, Vira and Divya. Thus no Paśu is component for Gupta-Sādhana or the secret ritual, the form of Sādhana must be determined after reference to all the circumstances of the particular case. This is the doctrine of Adhikāra or competency. See note 1, p. 137.

By merit acquired in many previous births the mind inclines to Kaula doctrine, and he whose soul is purified by such worship himself becomes Śiva².

*yatrāsti bhogabāhulyam tatra yogasya kā kathā/
yoge'pi bhogavirahaḥ kaulastūbhayamaśnute//*

1. Ye yatrādhikṛtā martyās te tatra phala-bhāginah. Thus a Vaiṣṇavā should not follow Śaiva practice, and only a Kaulika Tāntrika is privileged to perform its rites. By yatra, Bhārati says, is meant either secret or overt worship. Man's mode of worship, it is said, should be according to his Adhikāra, or competency, and it is only if he worships within his Adhikāra that he will enjoy the fruit of his worship within his Adhikāra that he will enjoy the fruit of his worship, and thereby be freed from his sins and attain Liberation. As to Adhikāra see "Alleged Conflict of Śāstras" by Arthur Avalon, p. 224, Śakti and Śakta, 5th Edn., based on Bhāskararāya's commentary on the Nityāśoḍaśika Tantra.

2. Bahu-janmārjitaiḥ puṇyaiḥ kulācāre matir bhavet, Kulācāreṇa pūtātmā sāksāt śivamayo bhavet.

यत्रेति । यत्र साधने । भोगविरहः भोगाभावः । उभयमश्नुते योगं भोगञ्च लभते ।

Where there is abundance of enjoyment, of what use is it to speak of Yoga,¹ and where there is Yoga there is no enjoyment, but the Kaula² enjoys both³.

1. See A. Avalon's Serpent Power.

2. Kaula Tāntrika. See for his Ācāra the Tantrasāra.

3. Yatrāsti bhoga-bāhulyam tatra yogasya kā kathā.

Yoge'pi bhogavirahaḥ Kaulastūbhayam aśnute.

This is a fundamental principle of the Tantrik method. The Kaula thus enjoys both Bhoga and Yoga, the worship being with enjoyment. Yoga is the union of Prāṇa and Apāna, of seed and ovum, of "Sun" and "Moon," of Nāda and Bindu, of Jīvātmā and Paramātmā. So also the Rudra-yāmala and the Maṅgala-rāja-stava say: "Where there is wordly enjoyment there is no Liberation; where there is Liberation, there is no wordly enjoyment. But in the case of excellent devotees of Śrīsundarī both Liberation and Enjoyment are in the hollow of their hands."

4. He who acquires divine knowledge (Brahma-tattva) becomes to longer subject to change, the bond which holds him to worldly things is cut. The Kula-tattva-jña is one versed in the knowledge of Kula. Kula means Brahma sanātanam, as the Kulārṇava Tantra states: "Na kulaṁ kulamityāhuḥ kulaṁ Brahma sanātanam—" i.e., by Kula is not meant family dignity, but the Sanātana Brahman. It is also said: "Kulaṁ Kuṇḍalinī śaktir Akulaṁ tu Maheśvaraḥ." Kuṇḍalī is Kula, the Maheśvara is Akula, She is Śakti and He who has mastered knowledge concerning Kuṇḍalinī is Brahma tattvajña and Brahman Itself in so far as he is a realiser. For Brahman is Caitanya United with Śakti and Kuṇḍalinī is Śakti united with Caitanya. To the understanding they are one and the same. It is only to limited knowledge that they appear to be two and separate.

The latter is of three kinds; best (Uttama), middling (Madhyama) and low or worst (Adhama). The first are those who faithfully follow Vedācara, Vaiṣṇavācāra, and Śaivācāra and are not hostile to any Devatā. The last are those who are hostile to the Devas and act as they please in neglect of the injunctions of Dharma Śāstra. The second class are between these two. The Kali Age is but the slave of those who are free of all crookedness and falsehood, men of candour, devoted to the good of others, who follow Kaulika ways.

In spite of its many blemishes, the Kali Age possesses one great merit, that from the mere resolve³ of a Kaulika if sincere, desired result ensues.

1. The Tattva is ordinarily used in the sense of Pañca-makāra, as in verse 60, but the commentator Bhāratī says that Kula-dravya here refers to these, and that in this context Kula-tattvas are five kinds of Tāntrika "flowers"—viz., (1) Vajra-puṣpa, (2) Svayambhūkusuma, (3) Kundapuṣpa, (4) Cola-puṣpa, (5) Sārva-kālīka-puṣpa. The word "flower" is (as in English) used symbolically for the Ṛtu as to which see Chapter V, verse 174, where the meaning of (2), (3), (4), is given. Sarvakālīkapuṣpa, which literally means "the flower of all seasons," is of any kind—that is, is not, as in (2), (3), (4), confined to the Ṛtu which first appears and of any particular woman. According to Kulacūḍāmaṇi No. (1) is used in drawing on a plate of gold the Yantra of Tārā.
2. Kulamārgī.
3. Saṅkalpa.

The Śloka is Stuti-vāda, or honorific speech and means that in former Ages men's intentions had result in good or evil as they wished, but in the present Age, whilst good intentions are quickly realised, from bad intentions evil is slow to result; for the Kali Age, though a degraded Age, is also a favoured one. The child himself may be a weakling, but the greater its infirmities the greater the Mother's help and favours.

O Thou Virtuous One! know this for certain, that whatsoever man does with Truth³, that bears,⁴ fruit.

1. Sarve dharmāḥ, all observances prescribed for the maintenance of the individual and community.
2. Tasmātsatyamayo bhavet; that is, should become one with Truth, realise it in all his being. Bhārati says that in this and the following verse Mahādeva desires to say that when Kali Yuga is dominant then Kulācāra should be practised openly.
3. Satya=dharma.
4. Saphalaṁ-Karma.

It is said "at night" not for concealment, but as denoting the particular form of worship then done. See Ch. X, verse III. In this verse, Bhāratī says, a question is anticipated and answered.
2. This is an ordinance abrogating during the period mentioned the law of secrecy, which had governed the Tāntrika Virācārā ritual when the Vaidikācārā prevailed.

7. For secrecy the letters are given different names which are only known to the learned. They may however also be got from the Bīja-kośas one of which is published as Tantrābhīdhāna in vol. I of my series of Tāntrik Texts. Prāṇeśa means "the Life," and signifies the letter Ha. Ha-kāra may mean either Viṣṇu or Śiva, or the latter alone, according to the Mantrābhīdhāna. Ha-kāra is the Bīja of Ākāśa (Vyoma)—Śiva being Mahākāśa-rūpī : in the form of the Great Ether. Taijasa (Tejas) means Fire, and signifies the letter Ra (Raṁ being the Bīja of Fire). Bheruṇḍā, an attendant of Durgā, signifies the long vowel ī. Thus, Ha+Ra=Hra+ī=Hrī+the Bindu (point or sign Anusvāra) = Hrīm.

By placing " Sandhyā " on " Rakta," and adding to it " Vāmanetra " and Bindu, the second Bija is formed.¹ Now listen, O Blessed One! to the formation of the third Bija.

"Prajāpati" is placed on " Dīpa," and to them is added "Govinda" and Bindu.² It yields happiness to the worshippers :

1. Sandhyā=Śa, Rakta=Ra, Vāma-netra=the long vowel ī, and Bindu is the point Anusvāra. Thus, Śa+Ra=Śra+ī+Śrī+the Bindu=Śrīm. As to the significance of Bindu see Garland of Letters.
2. Prajā-pati, or Brahmā, Lord of creation=kā; Dīpa, or Fire (whose Bija is Raṁ) = Ra; Govinda = long vowel ī; and Bindu is the sign Anusvāra which is Hasanta Makāra, i.e., the letter M without the vowel. Thus, Ka+Ra=Kra+ī=Krī+Bindu=Krīm.

After making these three Bījas add the word Parameśvarī¹ in the vocative, and then the word for Vahni-kāntā.² Thus O Blessed One! is the Mantra of ten letters formed.³ This Vidyā⁴ is the Supreme Devī, is the substance which is all Mantras⁵.

3. That is, Hrīm, Śrīm, Krīm, Parameśvarī Svā-hā. The vowels are the Śaktis of the consonants, which cannot be uttered without them. Therefore, consonant and vowel annexed are treated as one letter. See Ānanda-laharī, v. 1.
4. Vidyā is the feminine Mantra, the sex of the Mantra changing with that of its presiding Devatā. The Śāradatilāka says that if a mantra is followed by Hum or Phaṭ, it is a masculine Mantra (Puruṣa; Puṁ-Mantra). Those which end with Svāhā are feminine, and those ending with Namaḥ are neuter.
5. Sarva-vidyā-mayī is Sarva-vidyā-svarūpā (Hariharānanda Bhārati). All the Vidyās are included in it (Tarkālaṅkāra). The Vidyā is identical with its Devatā; Cf. Devatā mantrarūpiṇī.
6. Hrīm, Śrīm, Krīm, Bhārati gives a variant—“for the attainment of piety (Dharma), desire (Kāma), wealth (Artha).”

1. Tvam ādyā prakṛtir yataḥ. Primordial material cause as Māyā-Śakti and efficient cause as Cit-Śakti. Here is established the connection between Prakṛti and all Mantras (Tarkālaṅkāra). All Devas, Devīs, and Mantras have originated from the Parabrahma united with Prakṛti either directly or mediately. They are not separate from Him. Therefore whatsoever Devas, Devīs or Mantras are worshipped it is the Ādyā Herself who is worshipped.
 2. Tāntrika doctrine in its Kaula form.
 3. The Mantras of the Devī—Śakti of Śiva.

1. Ādyā, Who is form the beginning.
 2. Madya (or other fermented liquor).
 3. Māmsa.
 4. Matsya.
 5. Mudrā, a term here used in its technical Pañcatattva sense, but which ordinarily means "ritual gestures with the fingers or postures of the body". See as to these last four Tattvas Woodroffe's Śakti and Śakta.
 6. Maithuna.
 7. Ordinarily called the Pañca-Makāra (Five M's), as to which see Śakti and Śakta. They are here called Pañca-tattva, and elsewhere Pañca-dravya.
 8. Abhicāra. Abhicāra is ritual is injure or destroy, and is, according to Hariharānanda-Bhārati, the equivalent of Himsā-karma—an act injurious to others. Jaganmohana-Tarkālāṅkāra says that if the special treatment prescribed by the Tantras is not followed then the sensual proclivities are not eradicated and the ritual is for the desired end of Tantra useless as magic which leads only to the injury of others. See also Woodroffe's Śakti and Śakta.

As seed sown on barren rocks does not germinate, so worship¹ without these five elements is fruitless.²

1. Pūjā.

2. On this verse Tarkālaṅkāra says what Śiva says is plainly this : By the poison which kills all animals, by that same poison the physician destroys disease. The root of Homeopathy is to cure illness by that which causes illness. Amongst us also there is the tradition that poison is destroyed by poison. What then is that which makes men sin and idle before his time, the object of contempt of all : The first amongst these causes are wine and woman; meat, fish, Mudrā (fired rice, gram and other such things taken along with drinks) are accessories. These five Tattvas are the primary cause of the terrific incurable disease which is Saṁsāra. Man under the influence of wine and the like becomes devoid of manliness and worthless. The stupefying power of wine and woman is so great as to attract even the pious and wise and hurl them into the abyss of darkness and ignorance. Here Śiva prescribes the poison which eradicates poison. We know as other Sādhakas do that this Homeopathic system of Śiva is infallible and yields speedy results. He who thirsts for wine or lusts after woman can be cured by this treatment within a very short time. But the physician, that is the Guru, must be experienced and skilful. A slight error in the administration of the poison may lead to fatal result. On this account Śiva has said that the path of Kulācāra is more difficult than it is to walk on the edge of a sword or to embrace the neck of a tiger. Here we give a popular or exoteric explanation of the Tattvas. But if the esoteric meaning of them be also known then it will be seen that in the matter of Sādhana they are absolutely necessary. No one who is not a Tattva-Jñāni can master their esoteric meaning. On this account Śiva has prohibited the disclosure of the Sādhana to ordinary people. We have ourselves seen people who claim to be Kaulas but as a fact they are no better than drunkards and libertines. O Reader, blame not Kulācāra on seeing these erring men. A libertine and drunkard can never be a Kaula. The Kaula method is unique. He cannot be a libertine and drunkard. On seeing a woman he sees his mother and Iṣṭadevatā in her and in either mind or body makes obeisance to her. The saints Gaurāṅga, Nityānanda and Advaita are brilliant examples of the true Kaula. In the Mahābhārata and Viṣṇupurāṇa it has been said that desire cannot be quenched by the enjoyment of objects of that desire. On the contrary desire flames up like fire when ghee is thrown upon it. This is very true. No one says that the drinking of poison will not kill. But the physician administers poison in such a wonderful way that it does not kill the patient but

To the Śākta reciting this Gāyatrī the Ādyā is the only Divinity he thinks of, knows, and contemplates. To Her alone his whole soul is bent with a prayer for the attainment of the fourfold aim of sentient being. Bhārati reads: "May Kālī Whom we seek to know and on Whom we meditate that we may attain the Ādyā Parameśvarī, may She who is verily the Cause of this universe, direct us in the path of Dharma, Artha, Kāma and Mokṣa."

1. Seer.
2. Forefathers.
3. Om.
4. "Him I satisfy : Namaḥ". The Mantra for the offering is given in the verse which follows and runs : Om Devān tarpayāmi Namaḥ, Om Ṛṣīn tarpayāmi Namaḥ, Om Pitṛīn tarpayāmi Namaḥ, Hrīm Ādyāṁ Kālīm tarpayāmi Svāhā, for Devas, Ṛṣis, Pitṛs and Ādyā Śakti respectively (Bhāratī). Tarkālaṁkāra says the mode of Tarpaṇa is not fully given, but following the authority of other Tantras it should be done with the Tattva Mudrā (formed by the union of the thumb and ring finger of the left hand). In doing Tarpaṇa (as in Rahasya tarpaṇa) to a male Devatā it should be done in the Sādhaka's own head within a triangle the apex of which is upwards and to a female Devatā in the heart the triangle having its apex downward. The triangle so placed is symbolic and the Yonī or Cause of all.
5. That is, Hrīm.
6. That is, the Devas, Ṛṣis and Pitṛs are worshipped with the Mantra prefixed by Om, and ending with Namaḥ but a Devī with Hrīm, or what ever Her Bija may be, concluding with Svāhā.

3. The Yoni-Mudrā—symbolical of the sexual organ of woman—is used in the Durgā and Kālī-Pūjā. The little finger is placed on little finger, the first finger on first finger, and the thumb on thumb. The knuckles of second and third fingers of each hand are bent, and rest on one another. A triangular Yantra is thus formed, of which the first fingers are the apex and the others the base. The Dhenu (Cow) Mudrā representing the udder of a cow is shown when offering food water, etc., to the Devatā changing it to Amṛta. See, post, VI, verses 137-138.

1. Sāmānyārghya.

2. Divya-drṣṭi—literally, “celestial gaze,” which is achieved by practice of the process of Haṭha Yoga called Trāṭaka. The Sādhaka without winking, gazed at some minute object until tears start from his eyes. Practice in Trāṭaka secures Divya-drṣṭi (see the Second Upadeśa of the Gheraṇḍa Saṁhitā). A Deva’s eyes do not wink. The gaze is steady. The Sādhaka’s must be that.

Cf. Dakṣiṇāmūrti Sāsāhita. These are gestures of—(1) invoking and welcoming, (2) placing, (3) fixing or placing on a seat, (4) restraining or detaining, and (5) confronting. 2. Bhārati says : Reciting the Mantra, "Aim (name of Guru) Ānanda-nātha—Śrī-guru-Śrī-pādukām tarpayāmi : Namaḥ", and with the peculiar gesture (Saṅketa-Mudrā) taught by the Guru, the Guru should be satisfied three times by (offer of) Vijayā (Bhām) and reciting the Mūla-mantra—i.e. "Hrīm Ādyām Kālīm tarpayāmi : Svāhā"—and with the Saṅketa Mudrā the Devī should be satisfied three times in the heart. The Saṅketa Mudrā in the text is the Tattva-Mudrā taught by the Guru.

 Kuṇḍalinī Yoga. See A. Avalon's Serpent Power and Śakti and Sākta.

 2. Earth element. The Pṛthivī Tattva together with whatever there is in the Mūlādhāra is brought up and dissolved in the Jala-tattva. The Tattva in each of the lower centres is first united with and then dissolved into that in a higher.
 3. The Cakra next above the Mūlādhāra at the sexual organs (see Serpent Power). In actual Yoga the Vāyu is gently driven up the middle of the Suṣumnā Nāḍī, by the Haṁsa Mantra and Pṛthivī, which is in the Mūlādhāra, is absorbed in Kuṇḍalī.
 4. Niyojayet=Vilāpayet.
 5. Here commences the description of the rite of Bhūta-śuddhi.
 6. The Guṇa of Pṛthivī is smell. This Guṇa and the sense of smell is dissolved in Water. Odour is the objective and the sense of Smell the subjective side of Pṛthivī. Both are dissolved in "water" in the Svādhiṣṭhāna.
 7. The tongue. The objective physical quality of Water affects as us Taste. Subjectively the Tattva is the sense of Taste through the organ the tongue.

To these Manu adds (vii, 43) a fifth—Ātma-vidyā, Knowledge of the Spirit. Others divide Vidyā into fourteen sections: Four Vedas, Six Vedāṅgas, Purāṇas, the Mīmāṃsā, Nyāya, and Dharma-śāstra, or Law. Others, again add the four Upa-vedas, making the division eighteen. The Vedāṅgas are Śikṣā (Science of proper articulation), Kalpa (ceremonial), Vyākaraṇa (linguistic analysis, or Grammar), Nirukta (explanation of Vedic words), Jyotiṣa (Astronomy), and Chandas (Metre). These are regarded as auxiliary to, and in this sense as part of the Vedas. Some people interpret Vidyā to mean the Mudrā of that name.

Having thus meditated upon the Devī-Mātṛkā,² the Sādhaka places the letters in the six Cakras³ as follows : Ha and Kṣa in the Ājñā⁴ Lotus, the sixteen vowels in the Viśuddha⁵ Lotus, the letters from Ka to Ṭa in the Anāhata⁶ Lotus, the letters

1. मतान्तरे तु भ्रूमध्यगे आज्ञाख्ये द्विदले पद्मे कण्ठे षोडशदले विशुद्धाख्ये पद्मे ।

2. Sarasvatī.

3. That is, the six Cakras or centres situate between the eyebrows (Ājñā), in the region of the throat (Viśuddha), heart (Anāhata), navel (Maṇipūra), sexual organ (Svādhiṣṭhāna), and in that portion of the perineum which lies two digits from that organ and the anus respectively (Mūlādhāra). The letters are said, and with suitable action placed in these six regions.

4. Ājñā-Cakra, a Lotus of two petals, with the letters Ha and Kṣa, whose presiding Śakti is Hākinī. Within the petal there is the eternal Seed, brilliant as the autumnal moon Śiva Samhitā, chap. V verses 96-119; and Ṣaṭcakra-nirūpaṇa, (A. Avalon's Serpent Power).

5. Viśuddha-Cakra, the Lotus Circle of sixteen petals, with the sixteen vowels, whose presiding Śakti is Śākinī (see Śiva Samhitā, chap. v, verses 90-95).

6. Anāhata-Cakra, the Lotus Circle of twelve petals, with the letters Ka, Kha, Ga, Gha, Na, Ca, Cha, Ja, Jha, Ña, Ṭa, Ṭha. (Ibid., verses 83-89).

from Ḍa to Pha in the Maṇipūra¹ Lotus, the letters from Ba to La in the Svādhiṣṭhāna² Lotus, and in the Mūlādhāra³ Lotus the letters Va to Sa. And having thus in his mind placed these letters of the alphabet, let the Sādhaka place them outwardly.

3. The Mūlādhāra, Root Lotus of four petals, with Va, Śa, Ṣa, Sa, two fingers above the anus and two below the genital organ, with its face towards the back. This space is called the root (mūla). Having placed them on the forehead, the face, eyes, ears, nose, cheeks, upper lip,¹ teeth, head, hollow of the mouth, back, the hump of the back,² navel, belly, heart, shoulders, (four) joints in the arms, ends of the arms, heart, (four) joints of the legs, ends of legs, and on all parts from the heart to the two arms, from the heart to the two legs, from the heart to the mouth, and from the heart to the different parts as above indicated. Prāṇāyāma should be performed³.

1. See Woodroffe's Śakti and Śākta. In the text only Oṣṭha (upper lip) is mentioned, but the practice is as described in the work cited.
2. Kakud. The hump of the bull is called Kakud. Here it means the portion of the back between the two shoulder-blades, where a hump, if it existed, would be.
3. See Serpent Power and Woodroffe's Śakti and Śākta. Mode of doing Mātrkā-nyāsa is as follows. With middle and third fingers place letter A on forehead and say Aṁ Namaḥ. With first, middle and third fingers put round the mouth and say Āṁ Namaḥ. With thumb and third place I on right eye and say Iṁ namaḥ. Same fingers on left eye Iṁ Namaḥ. Back of thumb on right ear Uṁ Namaḥ and left ear Uṁ Namaḥ. Little finger and thumb on right nostrils Ṛṁ Namaḥ : on left nostrils Ṛṁ Namaḥ. First, second, third on right cheek Liṁ Namaḥ: on left Liṁ Namaḥ. Middle finger upper lip Eṁ Namaḥ. On lower lip Aiṁ Namaḥ. Third finger upper teeth Oṁ Namaḥ. Lower teeth Auṁ Namaḥ. Middle finger head Aṁ Namaḥ. Third finger on opened mouth Aḥ namaḥ.

Then passing to the consonants, with middle, third and little fingers joined together place on right shoulder Kaṁ, on elbow Khaṁ, on wrist Gaṁ. With same fingers place on lower forms of fingers of right hand Ghaṁ and on tips of fingers Naṁ in the same way on left arm place Caṁ, Chaṁ, Jaṁ, Jhaṁ and Ñaṁ. Then on right leg on hip-joint nee ankle, lower joints and tips of toes place Ṭaṁ, Ṭhaṁ, Ḍaṁ, Ḍaṁ, Naṁ and on the left place Taṁ, Thaṁ, Daṁ, Dhaṁ and Naṁ. With same fingers on right side place Paṁ on left Phaṁ, on back Baṁ. With thumb middle third and little fingers place Bhaṁ on navel. On belly place Maṁ with all the fingers. On the heart put Yaṁ saying Draw in the air by the left nostril whilst inwardly uttering the Māyā Bīja¹ sixteen times, then fill up the body by Kumbhaka by stopping the passage of both the nostrils with little, third finger, and thumb whilst making Japa of the Bīja sixty-four times, and, lastly, exhale the air through the right nostril whilst making Japa of the Bīja thirty-two times².

On left shoulder place Vaṃ with palm saying Medātmane Namaḥ. From the heart to the right shoulder place Saṃ saying Asthyātmane Namaḥ. From the heart to the left shoulder Śaṃ saying Majjātmane Namaḥ. From heart to right leg place Saṃ saying Śukrātmane Namaḥ. From heart to belly place Laṃ and say Jīvātmane Namaḥ. From heart to mouth place Kṣaṃ and say Paramātmane Namaḥ. This is the Vahiyāsa of Mātrikā (Tarkālāṅkāra). For those who cannot do the prescribed Mudrās a flower may be used. (Cf. Ullāsa, iii, 44 et seq.)

1. That is Hrīm. See as to this and other Bījas as Saṅga-Śakti Woodroffe's Garland of Letters.
2. This is Pūraka, Kumbhaka, Recaka. The air inhaled by Pūraka increases in volume by the heat of the body five times during Kumbhaka, and, when exhaled, two-fifth only passes out, and the remaining three-fifths is retained, the object of Prāṇāyāma being the increase of the vital forces and the lightness of the body. The more the air (vital breath) is kept in, lighter becomes the body and the stronger the vitality.

The Mantra is Hr̥m Hr̥dayāya Namaḥ, Hr̥m Śirase Svāhā, etc.

3. Ādhārā-śakti, Śakti of support. Everything in the universe has a support, or energy by which it is upheld.
4. Kūrma on which the words are said to rest. The Kūrma is the emblem of patient endurance. Cf. Ś. Br., vii, 5, 1.
5. Which is on the Tortoise. The Deva, King of Serpents, with a thousand hoods, crown on its head, red like the leaf of a mango-tree, brown-bearded, brown-eyed, wearing yellow silk cloth, holding lotus, mace, conch, and discus, adored with ornaments lying in the ocean of milk (Bhaviṣya-Purāṇa). He support the worlds (Kūrma Purāṇa, verse 48, where the Dhyāna is given).
6. Pṛthvī, or Pṛthivī. Devī Earth. Supported by Śeṣa. In the body it is in Mūlādhāra below which in the lower limbs are the previous supporting Śaktis.
7. Sudhāmbudhi.
8. Isle of Gems (Maṇi-dvīpa) in the Ocean of Ambrosia. There are seven oceans, of milk and other substances. The Rudra-yāmala says : "Outside and beyond the countless myriads of gross world-systems, in the centre of the Ocean of Nectar, more than, 1,000 crores of Yojanas in extent, in the Gem Island, 100 crores of Yojanas in area, the lamp of the world. There is the supreme city of Śrī-vidyā, three lakhs of Yojanas in height, adorned with twenty-five halls, representing the twenty-five Tattvas."
9. A Tree with scented flower in the Heaven of Indra. One of the five celestial Trees in the garden of Indra—viz., Mandāra, Pārijāta, Santāra, Kalpaka-vṛkṣa, Hari-candana. Here a tree in the Isle of Gems.
10. Cintāmaṇi-grha. Cintāmaṇi is that gem which yields all objects desired. Of that the chamber or house is built in the Isle of Gems. In the house of Cintāmaṇi, which is on the northern side of Śṛṅgāra-vana, all is Cintāmaṇi. In the commentary on the Gauḍapāda Sūtra (No. the Cintāmaṇi house is said to be the place of origin of all those

1. The jewelled altar is in the Cintāmaṇi Gṛhas and on the altar is the Lotus-seat on which is Devī with whom the Jīvātmā is one. She is Svasamvittripurā-Devī (see Yoginīhṛdaya Tantra). It is immediately beneath the Anāhata Cakra, facing upwards to the Anāhata Cakra, which faces downwards. The eight petals of this lotus are the eight Siddhis. The eight Nāyikās whose names are given in the Text are the eight Śaktis, and the eight Bhairavas their consorts are emanations of Śiva. By Sūrya, Soma, and Hutāśana (Eater of Oblation) are meant the Sthūla aspect of "Sun," "Moon" and "Fire" in the head : as to which see Chapter so-named in Woodroffe's Garland of Letters and Serpent Power. In the early stage of Sādhana the Devatā is here invoked. On attainment of Yoga-siddhi the lotus is merged in the Sahasrāra.

The nature of meditation upon Thee, O Devī! is of two kinds, according as Thou art thought of as formless or with a form.²

1. The Sādhaka first makes with his hands the Kacchapa (Tortoise) Mudrā (as to which, see Tantrasāra, p. 639) and, keeping his hands in this position, picks up the flower.
2. Dhyāna is Sa-rūpa or A-rūpa.

As formless Thou art ineffable and incomprehensible, unmanifest, all-pervading. Of Thee it cannot be said that Thou art either this or like this. Thou art omnipresent, transcendent, attainable only by Yogīs through austerities such as the many acts of self-restraint and the like.¹

1. Śama=control of the inclinations (Antaḥkaraṇa). Dhyāna is of two kinds, namely Sthūla, gross or with form and Sūkṣma or subtle. If the Brahman is thought of with form and attributes then it is Sthūla Dhyāna. Dhyāna of the formless (Nirākāra) and attributeless (Nirguṇa) is Sūkṣma Dhyāna. The latter again is of two kinds : (a) Bindudhyāna, (b) Śūnyadhāna. The Bindu or point has neither length nor height nor depth nor breadth. It is however united with Māyā (Māyayukta). It is from this Bindu that Brahmā, Viṣṇu and Maheśvara and others originated. Meditation on that which is undifferentiated (Aparicchinna), attributeless, changeless, incomprehensible Sat Cit Ānanda is Śūnya-dhyāna. This is beyond the scope of mind and speech. When by Yoga practice another "sense" is awakened then Yogīs by Yoga-power experience the Bindu or Śūnya. This is called Brahma-sākṣātkāra (Tarkālaṅkāra).
 2. That is, the meditation of the Devī as the formless One. Dhyāna is of two kinds. Some speak of three kinds of Dhyāna; Sthūla, Sūkṣma and Para. The Gheraṇḍa Saṁhitā speaks of three forms of Dhyāna—Sthūla, Jyotiḥ, and Sūkṣma.

The kaulikācāra-bheda Tantra, which speaks of the different wines which should be drunk on different occasion, says : "On a joyful occasion should Mādhvika be drunk." Mahā-kāla is dancing because of the benignant state of the Ādyā. Here the worship is mental (Mānasa) not exterior (Bāhya).

It may also be made by a clever carver on crystal, coral, or lapis lazuli.

Svayambhu is the Kulapuṣpa of any woman; Kuṇḍa, that of a girl born of a married woman by any other than her husband; and Gola, that of the daughter of a widow. In conformity with its general character, this Tantra (Chapter VI, verse 15) substitutes for the Kula-puṣpa (of whatever kind) red sandal paste.

The chief Sādhaka and his Śakti—who may be, but not necessarily are, the host and hostess (Gṛhiṇī) in whose house the circles takes place—sit in the centre, the Śakti on the Sādhaka's left. Between and in front of them are the articles of worship referred to in the text, and the large jar (Kalaśa) of wine, which is called by the Tāntrikas Kāraṇa-vāri and Tīrtha-vāri. In the Jñānārṇava Tantra it is said that the Kula articles of worship should—when purified—be considered as the image of Brahman and the Iṣṭa-devatā worshipped. The other worshippers sit round in a circle, men and women alternating, the latter on the left of the former.

The translation given in the text is that of Tarkālaṅkāra, who supports it by the observation that the practice amongst all the different communities (Sampradāya) of Tāntrika Sādhakas is to close the right nostril and to inhale the scent from the Kalaśa times by Idā, and then to exhale it by Piṅgalā to a place away from the jar.
5. Tarkālaṅkāra says that whatever is done in Pūjā has a meaning. The ritual significance of Pañcīkaraṇa is to make the wine in the jar the celestial nectar (Divyasudhā) which manifests Brahman-bliss. This Kāraṇa (wine or cause) is the Ajñāna which is the cause of the material world produced of the collectivity of the five subtle Bhūtas. The Sādhaka in doing Pañcīkaraṇa (making fivefold) of the five unmixed (Apañcīkṛta) Bhūtas first of all realises sound the property of Ākāśa by striking the jar. Then he limits or condenses Ākāśa by the veiling gesture (Avaguṇṭhana Mudrā) and mentally realises the sense of touch. Then by looking with winkless eyes he unites Tejas with the last and sees form. Thereafter by dropping a little water he realises taste. Lastly thinking of the earth-element he becomes aware of smell

Mantra¹

Hrīm :² The Haṁsa³ dwells in the pure sky.⁴

1. This is the celebrated Haṁsavatī R̥k of the Ṛgveda : Hrīm.
Haṁsaḥ Śucisad Vasur Antarikṣasat
Hotā Vedisad Atithir Duroṇa-sat
Nṛsad Varasad R̥tasad Vyomasad Abjā
Gojā R̥tajā Adriajā R̥tam Br̥hat.
Ṛgveda Samhitā Maṇḍala 4, Adhyāya 4, Sūkta 40, R̥k. 5, Max Müller, 1st Ed., Vol. III, p. 195; and Yajurveda X, 24, and XII, 24. See also Kaṭhopanishad, V. 2. As to the Mantra cf. Ait. Br., 420; Sh. Br., 5, 4-3, 22, 6, 7, 3, 11.
2. This is the Māyā Bīja which Tantra prefixes to the Vedic Mantra. See Woodroffe's Garland of Letters.
3. Śaṅkara (commentary on Kaṭhopanishad) says that Haṁsa is either Sūrya the solar deity or Paramātmā (of whom it is a form). Sūrya is Āditya so-called, according to Sāyaṇa, from Hanti (=Gacchati) because he is in perpetual motion and also because he destroys Ahambhāva. Haṁsa is the Ajapā Mantra said in breathing. By the Sun all life is maintained.
Haṁsaḥ is So'ham reversed.
4. Śucisat or dweller (as the Sun) in the sky (Śaṅkara). By this its position in Svah is shown (Sāyaṇa). Or is in the sun in the sky (Tarkālaṅkāra).

It is in the air and in the middle region.¹

It² is in the sacrificial³ and Gārhapatya⁴ and household⁵ fires.

It is honoured in the guest.⁶

It is in man,⁷ in the great and worshipful ones.⁸ It is in Ṛta,⁹ in the ether,¹⁰ in the waterborn,¹¹ in the earthborn.¹²

1. Vasur Antarīkṣasat. Its light pervades the airs. Sāyaṇa says it is Vasu because it dwells (Vas) everywhere as does the all-pervading air (Vāyu) in the middle region, the Bhuvah or Antarīkṣa. Śaṅkara says Vasu is He who maintains the beings of the world and Antarīkṣasat—who in the form of Vāyu (air) dwells in the space mid Heaven. (Svah) and Earth (Bhū).
 2. Hotā Vēdiṣas Atithir Duroṇa-sat. The Mantra now goes on to show that the Supreme is not only in Heaven (Svah) and the mid-region between Heaven and Earth (Antarīkṣa) but also on Earth (Bhū).
 3. Hotā is as Śaṅkara says fire or who dwells in the senses and experiences sounds and so forth.
 4. The Gārhapatyāgni is kept constantly burning by a class of Brāhmaṇas. According to Śaṅkara, Vedisat=who is on the altar which is the Pṛthivī.
 5. Duroṇa-sat (Sāyaṇa). According to Śaṅkara it means that "That which is in the jar of Soma-rasa or who is in Houses."
 6. Atithir is a guest so called because he does not stay longer than one Tithi that is fifteenth part of the lunar half month. Śaṅkara says it means here Soma-rasa.
 7. Nṛ-sat. It is the Consciousness (Caitanya) of man (Śaṅkara). By this, says Sāyaṇa, the Paramātmā is indicated for man's Consciousness is the highest manifestation of the Supreme Consciousness or Cit.
 8. Vara-sat. Śaṅkara says the reference is here made to Brahmā and other Devas. Tarkālaṅkāra interprets Vara-sat as the Sūrya Maṇḍala or solar circle.
 9. Ṛtasat. The term Ṛta means the Brahman, Truth (Satya) or Yajña (Sacrifice). That which is there is Ṛtasat (Sāyaṇa). Śaṅkara says Ṛtasat=He who is in Yajña or in Veda which is Satya-svarūpa.
 10. Vyomasat (Śaṅkara).
 11. Abjā. Śaṅkara says that this means who is in waterborn things such as selfish and other aquatic animals. Tarkālaṅkāra says that the reference is made to the submarine fire Vaḍavāgni or to the Vidyudāgni in water.
 12. Gojā such as (Śaṅkara says) rice and other things grown on earth. Tarkālaṅkāra says the fire which is in the stones and the like.

It is seen in Rta¹ who rises from the eastern mountain² who is Rta.³

The great⁴ all-pervading Cause of all.

Exchange the vowel of the Varuṇa Bīja⁵ for each of the long vowels,⁶ then say "Salutation to the Devī Ambrosia, who is freed from the curse of Brahmā."⁷ By the repetition of the entire Mantra seven times, the curse of Brahmā is removed.

1. Rta¹ (see as to Rta note, ante) because as Śaṅkara says it manifests in the parts (Aṅga) of the Yajña, or because as Sāyaṇa says, it is visible to all and does not (like Indra and others) come and go.
2. Adrijā : That is Udayācala from behind which the sun is said to rise. It sets behind Astācala. He as Āditya arises therefrom and goes thereto (Tarkālaṅkāra). According to Śaṅkara this means "Who is the rivers which have their source in the mountains."
3. Rtam=Satyam or that which the Vedas prove (Śaṅkara). It is said by Sāyaṇa to be the Brahma-tattva or great consciousness (Mahānubhāva). Tarkālaṅkāra says it is known as the Truth Reality which is everywhere and which can neither be hidden nor limited. It is the all-pervading Brahma-tattva whose Sattā or Being is everywhere seen (Upalabdha).
4. Bṛhat as He is the Cause of all (Sarva-kāraṇa) according to Śaṅkara. Bṛhat comes from the root Bṛh or Bṛnh which is the root of the word Brahman. The object of the mantra is to establish the unity of the Paramātmā without attributes, the Saguṇa Īśvara and of all things which have proceeded from Him. As used here it indicates the unity of the Devī Sudhā (wine) with all the Devatās mentioned in the Maṇḍala. Wine is Tārā Devī in liquid form (Dravamayī). The Devī who thus manifests is displayed in all things, in Īśvarī the sovereign Lady the Cause and Ruler of all and in her Svarūpa as Cinmayī one with the Supreme Śiva or Paramātmā.
5. That is, Vām Bīja of the Lord of Waters.
6. That is, Vām, Vīm, Vūm, Vaim, Vaurm, Vah.
7. Brahma-śāpa-vimocitāyai Sudhā-devyai Namaḥ. Brahmā, under the influence of liquor, lusted after his own daughter, and therefore cursed it, saying that he that should drink it was as guilty as one who killed a Brāhmaṇa, and would go to hell. "Non-Tāntrikas say that, even when the curses are removed, wine should not be drunk, to which the Tāntrikas reply that Paśus are ignorant (Ajñānī), and that if their views were correct then no one should make Japa of the Gāyatrī, which also is afflicted with three curses. Yet, after the curses are removed, worshippers make Japa of the Gāyatrī" (Pañca-tattva-Vicāra by Nīlamanī Mukhyopādhyāya, Calcutta, p. 19).

Substituting in their order the six long vowels in place of the letter o in Aṅkuśa,¹ and adding thereto the Śrī and Māyā-Bījas,² say the following

Mantra

“Remove the curse of Kṛṣṇa³ in the mind : pour nectar⁴ again and again : Svāhā”⁵.

Having thus removed the curse of Śukra, of Brahmā, and of Kṛṣṇa, the Sādhaka should with mind controlled worship the Deva Ānanda-Bhairava and Ānanda-Bhairavī⁶.

1. That is, the Bīja Krom.

mood. The Tantrāntara gives the following meditations on Ānanda-Bhairava and Ānanda-Bhairavī. The former is lustrous like ten million suns and cool like ten million moons. The Deva has five faces with three eyes in each and eighteen arms. He is on a Brahmāpadma in the middle of the ocean of nectar. His throat is blue. He is decked with ornaments and seated on a bull. He holds a skull and Khaṭvāṅga (The club surmounted by the skull; a piece of wood half burnt from a funeral pyre is also so called) and makes a music with bell and drum (Ḍamaru). He holds the noose (Pāśa), goad (Aṅkuśa), mace (Gadā), spear (Muśala), sword (Khaḍga), shield (Kheṭaka), axe (Paṭṭiśa), hammer (Mudgara), trident (Śūla) and staff (Daṇḍa). He holds a vajra (thunderbolt) and a severed head and makes the Mudrā (gesture) of granting boons and dispelling fear.

Anandabhairavī, the Devī Sudhā, should be meditated upon as lustrous as a hundred thousand million moons white as snow and the Kunda flowers. She has five faces with three eyes in each and eighteen arms. She is eager to give joy to all, She is large-eyed, smiling and seated in front of the Deva-deveśa. The rest is as above.

1. That is, the seven Sanskrit letters, followed by Yūṁ Ānanda-Bhairavāya Vaṣaṭ.

In the worship of the Ānanda-Bhairavī the Mantra is the same, except that its face is reversed, and in place of the Ear the left Eye should be placed, and then should be said :

Mantra

2. This is a Rk from Rg-Veda, Seventh Maṇḍala, fourth chapter, forty-ninth Sūkta, twelfth Mantra. The translation and interpretation given is that of the Bengali translation by Tarkālaṅkāra. It occurs also in Ullāsa viii, verse 244 post.

Śrī Sadāśiva said :

There are three kinds of wine which are excellent—namely, that which is made from molasses,¹ rice,² or the Madhūka flower.³ There are also various other kinds made from the juice of the palmyra and date tree, and known by various names

1. Gauḍī (Guḍa=Mollases).

2. Paiṣṭī.

3. Mādhvī. Wine made from grapes is also called Mādhvī. Tarkālaṅkāra says that wine made from molasses is Gauḍī. What is made from half cooked rice, paddy and the like is called Paiṣṭī. This is made in French Candernagore. Wine made from grapes, raisins, honey, different kinds of flower particularly the Madhūka flower is called Mādhvī. Wine can also be made from Tulasī and bael leaves, the bark of the Bael tree, betel nuts, coriander seed, nutmeg, myrabolam, bhāṅg, ginger, bamboo, bananas, bark of the ber fruit tree and acacia tree and other substances. The Bhutias make an excellent wine from some kind of leaf. In fact in everything there is Sat, Cit, Ānanda of the Saccidānanda Brahma. If the part which is the basis of Ānanda in Molasses and the like be separated then it becomes known as wine. It is on this account that it is helpful in Sādhana of the Brahman who is Saccidānanda and it is on this account that the knower of Brahman looks upon it as sacred and worships it.

1. On this verse Tarkālaṅkāra says that in one of the Tantras it has been said that shortly after the churning of the ocean the inexhaustible jar of Amṛta or nectar was placed in the hands of Gaṇeśa. Whenever any of the Devatās wanted to drink the nectar, Gaṇeśa would pour it out for him. In this way he got to leisure. On one occasion Gaṇeśa became very tired and some impurity (Mala) came out of his trunk, out of that a man came. Because he came out of the trunk (Śuṇḍa) he was called a Saunḍika or brewer. Gaṇeśa placed the jar of nectar in the hands of this man and granted him the following boon, viz., that as the Devatās churned the ocean after throwing into it drugs and other substances and thus produced nectar so the brewer and his descendants would put into water different things and churning it would produce nectar which they were to give to other people but never drink it themselves. In the drinking of this no one should make any distinction of caste. If the brewer of the present day make wine from the prescribed articles according to the method laid down in the Tantras then man becomes long lived and free of ailments. Old men by the use of wine become young again.

Meat, again, is of three kinds, that of animals of the waters, of the earth, and of the sky. From wheresoever it may be brought and by whomsoever it may have been killed, it gives without doubt, pleasure to the Devatās.

There are also three kinds of parched food, superior, middle, and inferior. The excellent and pleasing kind is that made from Śāli rice,³ white as a moonbeam, or from barley or wheat, and which has been fried in clarified butter.⁴ The middling variety is made of fried paddy and the like. Other kinds of fried grain are inferior.

The allusion here is to the three classes of women who might be Śaktis : Svīyā (one's own wife), Parakīyā (the wife of another), and the Sādhārāṇī (one who is common). This Tantra (according to the present text) discountenances Śaktis of the second and third kind, and ordains that the Śakti should be the wife of the Sādhaka (worshipper). With her the fifth Tattva or coition (maithuna) should be done.

2. See verse 174 of Chapter V—that is, Svayambhu, Gola, and Kuṇḍa. Kathitam tatpratidinidhau kuṣīdam parikīrtitam. A form of ritual which will disgust all but those who practise it whose principle however it is to free themselves of all Ghrinā and other Pāśas.

The excellent disciple should then worship in the four corners of the square the Pīṭhas, Kāma-rūpa,¹ Pūrṇa-śaila, Jālandhara, Uḍḍīyāna, with the Mantras formed of their

1. These Pīṭhas are the correspondences in the outer world (Bāhyataḥ) of the four Śāktik manifestations of the general Vimarśa Śakti called Ambikā, Vāmā, Jyeṣṭhā, Raudrī. The first denotes the "seeing" of the Divine Moher of Her own forthcoming (Sphuraṇa) when She is Parā Vāk. Vāmā is the state when she is outward turned (Unmukhī) Śakti being then in its seed or Bīja state. She is then Icchā Śakti and Paśyanti in which she is in the form of a goad (Aṅkuśa). Jyeṣṭhā is Jñāna-Śakti, Madhyamā-Vāk, in the form of a straight line (Rjurekhā). Raudrī is Kriyā-Śakti and Vaikharī-Vāk in the form of Śṛṅgāṭa (Pyramidal and triangular) and as Saṁhāra Śakti is in the form of Bindu in the return movement (Pralaya). These Pīṭhas are the Kanda, Pada, Rūpa and Rūpātīta respectively. The first is the root of the Suṣumnā-Nāḍī or Mūlādhāra. Pada is Haṁsa in Ahāhata-cakra the seat of Jīva. Rūpa is Bindu in Ājñā-Cakra, Rūpātīta is Niṣkala in the Brahmarandhra. The outer subtle manifestations are here the inner Cakras of the body. The gross Cakras are the holy places, named in the Text, great seats of Śākta worship.

Having thus consecrated the wine with the Mantra, think of the union² in it of Śiva and Śivā³ and worship it by waving lights and burning incense-sticks before it⁴.

1. Ahamntāpātra-bharitam idamntāparamāmṛtam :
Parāhamtāmāye vahnau homa-svikāra-lakṣaṇam.
Aham=I. Ahantā="I-ness" (Ahamkāra). Idam=this. Idamntā=Thisness. These two as duality are offered to the one supreme Self beyond "I" and "This". See as to Idamntā, Taitt.-Up. Cf. Jñānārṇava Tantra, XXI, v. 25.

A is the first and Ha the last letter of the alphabet, Ma (M) being the usual terminal; Aham then represents all the letters of the alphabet which is the manifested Śabda Brahman. Aham=Jīvātmā; Parāham=Brahman. So it is said Tato'hamnāma abavat. (Br.-Up., 1, 4, 1; 5, 5, ; When a man is asked "who are you?" (Kastvam) he replies "it is I" (Aham) and then gives his name. When he says Aham or I he affirms that he is Brahman. He refers to his individual self when he gives his name. "This" arises when the Ātmā as "I" posits itself over against it. Idamntā=universe which is in the Aham and yet appears separate from it. Parāhamntā=the Supreme "I-ness" as Paramātmā. By this Mantra the Sādhaka endeavours to realise the oneness of the individual self (Ahamntā) with the Supreme Self (Parāhamntā). The joy (Ānanda) which is in the wine is a form of the supreme Bliss (Paramānanda) of which it is a manifestation.

2. Sāmārasya=Eka-rasya (vide p. 147, note. 2).
3. Śiva and His Śakti.
4. Ārati.

 3. It is customary also to add the Guru's wife's name, the wife being the Śakti. The Mantra thus runs Aīm Saśaktika-Guru Śrī (name)+ ānandanatha+name of Guru's wife+devyāmbā śrī pādukām tarpayāmi Namaḥ and so with Parama-guri and the rest. In doing Tarpaṇa to a Devatā the nectar should be held in the left hand, the fingers of which are formed into the Tattva-mudrā. The Śuddhi is in the right hand the fingers being in Tattva-mudrā. The Śuddhi is in the right hand th fingers being in Tattva-mudrā. The two hands are then brought together and carried to the Brahma-randhra and offering made thereon. On the Brahma-randhra previously draw a reversed triangle if the Devatā is female and upturned if male.
 4. i.e., Krīm.
 5. Krīm Ādyām Kālīm tarpayāmi Svāhā. Bhāratī says that the Mantra for the Tarpaṇa of the Devī is—Hrīm, Śrīm, Krīm, Parameśvara Svāhā Ādyām Kālīm tarpayāmi Svāhā.

Then, with the wine in the Yoginī-pātra, oblation should be offered to the Ādyā-Kālīkā carrying all her weapons and with all Her followers.

Then should follow the sacrifice to the Vaṭukas².

1. The word is Aṅgāvaraṇa=Aṅga+Āvaraṇa—that is, the Devatā of both classes (Bhakta, 226). By Aṅga is here meant the six limbs (Ṣaḍaṅga), of the Mūla devatā considered as Devatās, e.g., Aṅgīnityā and Aṅganityā and by Āvaraṇa-Devatās, the attendant Devatās (see verse 96 post).
2. Between the Tarpaṇa to the Devī, as in verse 53, and before the sacrifice to Vaṭuka, the practice is to perform—(1) Tattva-śuddhi, which is done by seven Mantras, in each of which the following pentads : Prāṇa, Apāna, Vyāna, Udāna, Samāna-Prthivī, Ap, Tejas, Vāyu, Ākāśa—Prakṛti, Ahaṁkāra, Buddhi, Manas, Śrotra—Tvak, Cakṣu, Jihvā, Ghrāṇa, Vacas-Pāṇi, Pāda, Pāyu, Upastha, Śabda-Sparśa, Rasa, Rūpa, Gandha, Ākāśa-Vāyu, Tejas, Salila, Bhūmi Ātmā are mentioned by name, with the prayer that the same may be purified, and a declaration by the worshipper that he is the Jyotiḥ (light) and free from sins; (Jyotiḥ aham virajā vipāpmā) and (2) Tattva-svikāra; and (3) Bindu-Svikāra. (See Bhakta's edition, at p. 226.) These rites are describe as p. 261. Verse 54 describes the mode of sacrifice.

Summarising Tarkālaṅkāra's Commentary : in Tattva-Svīkāra a tringale is drawn on the palm of the right hand. A piece of Śuddhi of the size of a pea is placed upon it. This is taken up with thumb and middle finger of left hand. Uttering the Mūla-mantra together with the word Śiva, Śakti, Śadāśiva, Īśvara, Vidyā, Kalā, the Sādhaka says “I purify the gross body with Ātmā-Tattva” (that is, the Tattvas of the 36 Tattvas from Prakṛti to Pṛthivī). Then he consumes the Śuddhi. He next takes up another piece of Śuddhi and uttering the Mūla-mantra together with the words Māyā, Niyati, Śuddha-vidyā, Rāga, Puruṣa says “I purify the subtle body of Vidyā-Tattva” (that is the Tattvas from Māyā to Puruṣa of the 36 Tattvas). He consumes the Śuddhi. Then he takes a third piece of Śuddhi and saying the mantra as before with the words commenceing with Prakṛti and ending with Bhūmi says “With the Śiva Tattva (i.e., the Tattvas of the 36 commenceing with Śiva-Tattva and ending with Sadvidyā Tattva) I purify my paradeha” (that is, causal body). Then saying the Mūla-mantra and all the 36 Tattvas, the vowels and consonants, says “I purify the Jīva the Āśraya of which (in which) are the Tattvas with all the Tattvas.” In Bindu-Svikāra, the Sādhaka realises that Kuṇḍalinī extends from the Mūlādhāra to the tip of the tongue and so meditating on Her becomes filled with Her presence (Tanmayo bhavet : that is, becomes Her). Then taking the Bindu from the Boghapātra uttering meanwhile the appropriate Mantra he should say “The liquid burns (Jvalati) I am the Light (Jyotiḥ). The Light is flaming (Jyotiḥ jvalati). Brahma am I (Brahmāhamasmi) He I am (So’ham) I am I (Aham eva aham). I make offering (Juhomi) Svāhā. Then taking the Bindu he says “I will speak of the Pratyakṣa Brahma, of Ṛtam Satyam. May He protect me. May he protect the speaker. May he protect me, May he protect the speaker. Svāhā.” Then having taken Bindu as before he says : Oṃ Chandasām ṛsaya yacchando bhamṛtā bhūvasā mandro medhayā spr̥notu bhuvi sruvam meṇopāyatu Svāhā.

1. This is Śivābali or offering to the jackal. The word means a jackal, and in the commentary of Bhārati the word is said here to be the equivalent of Phet-kārikā (=Howling), which means a jackal. There is a well-known Tantra of this name. The jackal accompanies the Devī and feasts on the leavings. It is a Tāntrika usage to feed female jackals at and after midnight. The jackal feeds on carcasses and frequents cremation grounds and hence is emblematic of final dissolution.

O Ādyā-Kālī ! hast Thou had a good journey? Is this coming pleasing to Thee? O Parameśvarī ! mayest Thou be seated on this seat⁴ ?

1. Prāṇa-pratiṣṭhā.

2. Diagram.

3. Literally, showing the Leliḥāna-Mudrā. Leliḥāna is derived from the root Liha=to lap, to lick. It is also a name of Śivā. Leliḥāna Mudrā is of two kinds. In the Dakṣiṇā-mūrti-Saṁhitā it is described to be as follows : Hold the index middle, and ring fingers straight downward; hold the little finger out straight. The thumb should touch the root of the ring finger. Bhārati refers to the Dakṣiṇā-mūrti-saṁhitā. The other kind is as follows : The two closed fists are placed near the two ears, the mouth is opened wide, and the tongue protruded and moved about. In the notes in the Edition of Bhakta it is said by Tarkālaṅkāra that it is the practice among worshippers to show Leliḥāna-Mudrā, Khaḍga (sword) mudrā, Muṇḍa (head) Mudrā, Vara-Mudrā, and Abhaya-Mudrā after Prāṇa-pratiṣṭhā.

The Mantras for the worship of the six limbs of the Devī are : (1) Hrīm̐ Hṛdayāya Namaḥ, (2) Hrīm̐ Śīrase Svāhā, (3) Hrūm̐ Śikhāyai Vaṣaṭ (4) Hraim̐ Kavacāya-Hūm̐, (5) Hraum̐ Netratrayāya Vauṣaṭ, (6) Hraḥ Karatala-prṣṭābhyām Phat.

3. There are three lines of Guru—Divyaugha (Heavenly line). Siddhaugha (Siddha line) Mānavaugha (Human line or type). The Gurus of the first class are four—Mahādevānanda-nātha, Mahākālānanda-nātha, Bhairavānanda-nātha, Vighneśvarānanda-nātha. There are five of the second, class, and ten of the third class. Of the second class are—Brahmānanda-nātha, Pūrṇadevānanda-nātha, Calacchittānanda-nātha, Calācalānanda-nātha, Kumārānanda-nāth. Of the third class are—Vimalānanda-nātha, Bhīmasenānanda-nātha, Sudhākarānanda-nātha, Nīlānanda-nātha, Gorakṣānanda-nātha, Bhoja-devānanda-nātha, vighneśvarānanda-nātha, Hutāśanānanda-nātha, Samayānanda-nātha and Nakulānanda-nātha. See also Tantrarāja, Ch. I, Introduction, Vol. 8, A. Avalon's Tāntrik Texts, Jñānārṇava Tr., XVI, 50, et seq., gives both additions and variations of these. These are the names of the three classes of Gurus for Sādhakas of Ādyā-kālī. For Sādhakas of other Devatās the name differs. See Tantrarāja, Ch. I, where names of the Gurus of the Sādhakas of Tripurā are given. These three lines are Āvaraṇa of the Iṣṭadevatā. When a Sādhaka does Saṁnyāsa then the Guru selects for him out of the names of his Iṣṭadevatā group (the Kaulāvadhūta need not do Saṁnyāsa) such name as he is qualified to receive. Some Gurus select a name from the eight Bhairavas and add nanda-nātha to it.

Now, listen, O Queen of the Devas! to the mode of doing Japa by which the Vidyā³ is pleased. During Japa, the Devatā, the Guru, and the Mantra should be fully realised as one.

The letters of the Mantra are the Devatā, and the Devatā is in the form of the Guru. He who worships them as one and the same, his is the highest success⁴.

1. Tāntrika.

2. Part of mantra-sādhana.

3. i.e., the Devī Ādyā-Śakti.

4. Siddhi. As the mantra is made of letters, the Devatā has a celestial and the Guru a human body it may be asked, says Tarkālaṅkāra, where is their identity. He answers. Suppose in three houses three images of Jagaddhātṛī are worshipped. If I bow to the materials of these images then obeisance to them is obeisance to three separate things. But I did not bow to the materials. I do not bow before it is placed in the image (Jīvanāyāsa). I bow to the one Jagaddhātṛī who is invoked into all the three images. The Guru again is not merely a human being. As the material of the image is the place of the Devatā so is the human form of the Guru. The Mantra is the body of the

The worshipper should then meditate upon his Guru as being in his head, the Devī in his heart, the Mūla-Mantra in the form of Tejas¹ on his tongue, and himself as identified² with the glory of all three.

Japa should then be done of the Mūla-Mantra seven times adding to the beginning and at the end of it the Tāra.³ Having done this, Japa should be done of it with the Māṭṛkā letters placed before and after it⁴.

Now eliminate the material of the image, the human form, and the letter form or Śabda-brahman of the mantra and look for the object of worship. That is the one Brahman in the form of all three. The Guru, Devatā, and Mantra are one and the same Brahman.

1. Light, and energy. The Mantra is thought of at the root of the tongue.
2. Mantra and Devatā are one : Mantrārṇā Devatā proktā, Devatā Gururūpiṇī. See Woodroffe's Garland of Letters.

The wise worshipper should make Japa of the Māyā-Bīja¹ over his head ten times, and of the Praṇava ten times over his mouth, and of the Māyā-Bīja again seven times in the lotus of his heart, and then perform Prāṇāyāma².

1. i.e., Hṛīm.

2. Breath control (See Serpent Power). Making Japa (as in verse 169) of the Mūla-Mantra, preceded and followed by the Praṇava, is called Aśauca-bhaṅga (=breaking or removing uncleanness), and making Japa as above with the Mātṛkā-Bīja in the Maṇi-pūra is called Nirvāṇa. Making Japa over the head is Kullukā (see Chapter iii, 119); making Japa of the Praṇava is Mukhaśodhana (purification of the mouth); making Japa of Māyā-Bīja in the heart is Setu (bridge). Meditating on the Mūla-mantra with the Bīja Hūm before and after it, in the Sahasrāra, in the Heart, in the Mūlādhāra and then again in the Sahasrāra is called Mantra-caitanya. To do Japa seven times of the Mūla-mantra preceded and followed of the Bīja Im is Nidrābhaṅga. To meditate on the Iṣṭa-devatā from feet to head as composed of the letters of the Mantra is called Mantrārtha-bhāvanā.

To do Japa of the Bīja-Krīm or Om Krīm in the heart or throat seven times is called Mahāsetu. To meditate on the Guru in the head and on the Iṣṭadevatā in the heart and to think of the Yoni-rūpā Bhagavati as pervading one from the head to the Mūlādhāra and the reverse and then doing Japa of the Bīja Er̥m ten times is Yoni-Mudrā. Doing Japa of the Mantra seven times formed by three repetitions of the Bīja, three of the Praṇava and three of the Bīja again is Jihvāśodhana. Prāṇa-yoga is done by Japa seven times of the Bīja preceded and followed each time by Hṛīm. Dīpanī is Japa of the Bīja seven times preceded and followed in each case by the Praṇava. Doing this seven times is Aśauca-bhaṅga. There are other terms such as mantra-śikhā which relate to Japa-rahasya.

4. Here, seniority=priority in initiation and not in years. The practice, is, as given in the Kaulikārcanadīpikā, as follows : The worshipper first serves his own Guru, then the Śakti of the Guru, then his own Śakti, then the elders on the right and the juniors on his left, and then he helps himself. In Kālīkula, the Śakti of the Guru is served before the Guru. If in a Cakra a Sādhaka has a Mahā-pātra (cup made of human skull) the wine should be put into that first.

Manu says that a man is not old because his hairs are grey. The Devas call him old who though young in years is possessed of wisdom (Jñāna). In ascertaining seniority the Pūrṇābhīṣikta is senior to the Śāktābhīṣikta. The Kramadīkṣita is senior to the Pūrṇābhīṣikta. The Sāmrajyābhīṣikta is senior to the Krama-dīkṣita. Mahā-sāmrajya is superior to Sāmrajya, Sāmrajyātīta is superior to Mahā-sāmrajya. The Pūrṇadīkṣita is superior to the former. Of the Pūrṇa-dīkṣita, he who is a Pūrṇa-yogī, who is fully adept in Mantra and Yoga is above all. The Guru of the particular Cakra is above the Pūrṇa-yogī. He is above all as representing the Ādiguru.

 4. Morality and Piety, Wealth, Fulfilment of Desire, Liberation.
 5. See v. 51 post. It will be observed that all the names of the Devī here commence with K. Hence it is called Kādi-stotra. Kādi is that which has Kā in the beginning. In the Tantrarāja Śiva says to Devī : "The syllable Kādi is in Thy form, and that Śakti confers all Siddhis" (see Lalitā-sahasra-nāma, verse 13, where a number of the following names appear). See as to the letter Ka and Kādi-mata, A. Avalon's Introduction to Tantrarāja, Vol. 8, Tāntrik Texts.

 7. Kālī (see Chapter IV, verse 30 et seq.) She is thus also called Kāla-karṣiṇī. Lakṣmī-dhara in his commentary to Saundarya-laharī, says that Kālī is Saṁharaṇa-Śakti.
 8. Bīja of Lakṣmī, Goddess of Prosperity.
 9. Karālī.
 10. Ka=Kālī, Ra=Brahmā, I=Mahā=māyā (She who conquers Māyā). The half-circle of Candra-Bindu (◌) is the Universal Mother and the points is the Destroyer of misery Bijābhidhāna).

happiness and Liberation. According to the padma-Purāṇa, Devī is worshipped as Kalyāṇī in the Malaya Mountain (see also Lalitā-sahasra-nāma, verse 73).

1. Kalā-vatī (see ibid., verse 74). As to Kalās in the Mantra Śāstra sense, see Garland of Letters, by Woodroffe. Kalā also means the Arts which are sixty-four in number. The Śakti should always be Kalā-vatī. Devī is also called Kalā-mālā, or Garland of the Kalās (Lalitā-sahasra-nāma, verse 151). Kalā-vatī may also mean “possessed of all Kalās, complete, perfect.” For She as Brahman is Pūrṇā, the whole.
2. Kamalā is a name of Lakṣmī, (see Lalitā-sahasra-nāma, verse 73, where the Devī is called Kāma-kalārūpā). On this Bhāṣararāya says that there are three Bindus and the Hārdha-kalā. The first Bindu is Kāma, and the last Kalā; according to the rules of Pratyāhāra, Kamalā includes all four who are seated on a Lotus (Kamala). The Kālikā-purāṇa says Devī alone is indicated by Kāma. Devī is Kamalā, as She is all Śaktis.
3. Kālī-darpa-ghnī.
4. Kapardīśa-kṛpānvitā. Kapardīśa is a title of Śiva, derived from His matted hair.
5. Kālīkā, because She devours Śiva as Mahā-kāla (see Chapter IV, verse 31).
6. Kāla-mātā. Time devour all things. She devours Time which again issues from Her.
7. Kālānala-sama-dyuti.
8. Kapardinī, wife of Śiva, so called Kapardī from His matted hair (see Lalitā-sahasra-nāma, verse 151). The Viśva says that Kaparda means the matted hair of Śiva.

10. Kṛṣṇānanda-vivardhinī. Kṛṣṇa here is apparently the Supreme Lord.
11. Kāla-rātri. Lalitā-sahasra-nāma, verse 101, speaks of the Devī as attended by hosts of Śaktis, Kāla-rātri, etc.—that is, the twelve Śaktis from Kāla-rātri to Ṭaṅkāri, one in each petal of Anāhata-Padma. The Varāha-Purāṇa says that Raudrī (the Śakti causing dissolution), who was born whom darkness and went to the Blue Mountains to perform penance, is called Kāla-rātri. She absorbs all things.

Thou Who art pleased by the worship of virgins,⁶

1. Kāma-rūpa (see Lalitā-sahara-nāma, verse 73). The Kālikā-purāṇa says that Devī is called Kāmā because she came to the secret place in the Blue peak of the Great Mountain (Kailāsa) along with Śiva for the sake of desire, and because She fulfils desires and destroys and restores the body of Kāma. As the Kāma-rūpa see p. 166, n. 2. Kāma also=Iccha or Creative Will. Devī first manifests as Kāmeśvarī in the Śrīcakra. See Introduction, Tantrarāja, Vol. 8, Tāntrik Texts, ed. A. Avalon and Kāma-kalā-vilāsa, vol. 10 in same series.
2. Kāma-pāśa-vimocinī.
3. Kādambinī. In the heat of India the rain-cloud is welcomed.
4. Kalādhārā. As to Kalā see Avalon's Garland of Letters, Kalā is a fraction of the total Śakti, a division or aspect of the temporal process in its cause and the 65 Arts. In the Lalitā v. 210) Devī is called Kalāmitrā where Kalā is defined as the Kalās Nivṛtti, Pratiṣṭhā, etc., also Kalānidhi where Kalā is said to refer to "Sun," "Moon" and "fire."
5. Kali-kalmaṣa-nāśinī (see Lalitā-sahasra-nāma, verse 113). The Kūmara-Purāṇa says that the repetition of the names of Devī destroys the multitude of sins in the Kali Age.
6. Kumārī-pūjana-pritā. The Kumārī-Pūjā, or worship of virgins, is a Pūjā common among Śāktas. The worship is by men, whereas the Sadhavā-pūjā, or worship of married women, is done by women. A girl in her eighth year is called Gaurī. The Devī as Pārvatī was married to Śiva in her eighth year. Girls of eight are considered Gaurīs and forms of the Devī. Or Kumārī may refer directly to the Devī Herself. She is known as the "Virgin" (Kumārī). One of the Śiva-Sūtras runs "icchā-śaktiḥ Umā Kumārī" (the power of Will is Umā, the Virgin). Bhāskararāya, in his Commentary, in the Lalitā-sahasra-nāma, pp. 54, 76, gives the following explanations : As play She creates the Universe, Kumāra=to sport, hence She is Kumārī, or She destroys (mārayati)

2. Kumārī-bhojanānanda. At the Kumari-pūjā sweets, a basket made of shells, and a new Sari are given to the little girls, the soles of whose feet are then painted with Alakta (lac-dye).
3. Kumārī-rūpa-dhāriṇī.
4. Kadamba-vana-śaṅcārā. It was under and on the kadamba tress, with their beautiful yellow blossom, that Kṛṣṇa played with the Gopinīs. Tantrarāja, ch. xxxiv, 84, speaks of Devī Tripurā becoming Kṛṣṇa.
5. Kadamba-puṣpa-santoṣā (see Lalitā-sahasra-nāma, verse 23).
6. Kadamba-vana-vāsini (see Lalitā-sahasra-nāma, verse 23). The palace of Cintāmaṇi is surrounded by a wall of gems (Maṇi-maṇḍapa). Around this is the grove of Kadamba-trees, which in the Purāṇas are said to be seven Yojanas in height in the space between the walls of gold and silver. The Bhairava-yāmala says: "The abode of Bindu is the ocean of nectar. The five Yonis—that is, five Śakti angels in the Śrī-cakra—are the divine trees. There is the grove of Nīpa-trees. Within that is the wall of gems. Within that is the palace of Cintāmaṇī."
7. Kadamba-puṣpa-mālīnī. The Lalitā-sahasra-nāma, verse 8, speaks of Devī as decked above her ears with clusters of Kadamba flowers.

1. Kiśorī.

2. Kāla-kaṇṭhā. Bhāratī gives the meaning as Kāla=Gambhīraśabda-yukta. She is also Kāla-kaṇṭhī (Lalitā-sahasra-nāma, verse 96), or wife of Kāla-kaṇṭha, a name of Śiva, whose throat was coloured by poison. According to the Devī Purāṇa, Kāla-kaṇṭha was worshipped at Kālañjara.

3. Kala-nāda-ninādinī : as in fighting utterin Hūm see p. 371, n. 1.

4. Kādambarī-pāna-ratā.

5. Kādambarī-priyā (see Lalitā-sahasra-nāma, verse 74). Kādambarī is a king of wine distilled from the Kadamba flower, it is Uttamā madirā. The Tripurā-Upaniṣad refers to wine, fish, flesh, cooked cereals being offered in the Yantra to the Great Devī. Bhāskara-rāya's Commentary on this Upaniṣad says that it enjoins those who are allowed to take wine, flesh, etc., that they should do so first after dedicating them to the Devī, and minimize the habit by gradation. The same idea is expressed in Manu Smṛiti, verse 56; Bhāgavata-Purāṇa, xi, 5-11.

2. Kamalālaya-madhyasthā. Kamalālaya may mean Viṣṇu out of whose navel the Lotus came or the ocean in which He lay in either of which cases Vaiṣṇavī Śakti is referred to.
3. Kamalāmoda-modinī.
4. Kala-haṁsa-gati. Haṁsa is variously translated goose, swan, etc. A swaying waddle like that of a duck is admired.
5. Klaibya-nāśinī.
6. Kāma-rūpiṇī. See Lalitā, 146.
7. Kāmarūpa-kṛtāvāsā. Kāma-rūpa, the great Śākta centre in Assam, one of the mahā-pīṭhas, where the genital organ of the Devī fell on the severance of Her body by Viṣṇu. Kāma-rūpa is also one of the Ādi-pīṭhas, which are in the Mūlādhāra and other power centres (see Lalitā-sahasra-nāma, p. 159). In external creation (Bāhyasṛṣṭi) it is the first, esoterically it is in the Mūlādhāra. See p. 304, note 2, as to Kāma-rūpa being representative of Ambikā, an aspect of Vimarśa Śakti.
8. Kāma-pīṭha-vilāsini—that is, the Yoni-pīṭha at Kāma-rūpa in Assam and also Mūlādhāra where She is as Kuṇḍalinī, or the Kāmakaḷā may be meant.

2. Kalpa-latā. The Kalpa-tree is a tree in the heaven of Indra, which yields whatever one desires. Woman is likened to a creeper (see not under i, 53). See also Lalitā-sahasra-nāma, where the Devī is called Bhakti-mat-kalpa-latikā=the Kalpa creeper of the devotee. Latā is by some defined as Iṣṭadevatā.

3. Kamanīya-vibhūṣaṇā.

4. Kamanīya-guṇārādhyā; or it may mean that the Devī is to be worshipped by the worshipper with all best and tender feeling.

5. Komalāṅgī.

6. Kṛśodarī, literally, small of belly. Cf. Ā-pīvara-stana-taṭīm tanu vṛttamadyāṁ (Bhuvaneśvarī Stotra) : Tanu-madyā (Lalitā-sahasra-nāma, verse 79).

7. Kāraṇāmṛta-santoṣā. Kāraṇa is the name given to the purified wine used in the Tāntrika ritual. Kāraṇa=Cause. White is the cause of material bliss. When the Sādhaka drinks he thinks of the Cause of all causes or Brahman as Kāraṇa.

1. Kūrca-bija-japa-prītā. "Hum" is the Kūrca Bija.
2. Kūrca-japa-parāyaṇā—that is, She Who mutters Hūm. When conquering the demons, the Goddess constantly made the Hūmkāra, the threatening roaring sound.
3. Kulīnā (see Lalitā-sahasra-nāma, p. 71). Kulā, accrding to the Tantra, means Śakti, Akula=Śiva, and the union of Kula with Akula is called Kaula. Hence Devī is called Kaulinī or Kulīnā. Commonly Kulīnā means 'one of noble family'. As to the use of Kula see Lalitā, verses 87, 88, 190, 217. Kula also=Sajātīya-samūha, consisting in the equality of Jñātā. Jñāna and Jñeya.
4. Kaulikārādhyā; and so also in the Lalitā-sahara-nāma, verse 71, the Devī is addressed as Dakṣiṇādakṣiṇārādhyā.
5. Kaulika-priya-kāriṇī.
6. Kulācārā.
7. Kautukinī.
8. Kula-mārga-pradarśinī.
9. Kāśīśvarī. Kāśī is Benares, the sacred city of Śiva.
10. Kaṣṭa-hartrī—and thus the Lalitā, verse 79, speaks of the Devī as "the moonlight which soothes those burned by the triple fire of misery."

8. Kāma-bīja-svarūpiṇī—that is, She is Klīm itself.

As a term of social usage, Puraścāra means the singling out of a person from a number, and placing him in a position of honour. The word in the text is Puraścaryā-vidhi=Method of Puraścaryā (=Puraścaraṇa). Tarkāṇ-kāra says that in wearing of reciting Kavaca, Puraścaraṇa must be done without which no fruit is attained.

In this form of Puraścaraṇa, in lieu of Homa¹ and other rites, the Mantras should be recited four times the number prescribed for the particular rite itself.

1. See p. 63, note 2. Cf. Chapter III, verse 15. The manner in which the successful, friendly, or inimical character of the Mantra is determined is described in the Tantrasāra in dealing with the A-ka-tha-ha, A-ka-ḍa-ma and Siddhāsiddha-Cakras at p. 37. Calculations are made with reference to the "house" of the Cakra within which the first letter of the worshipper's name and the first letter of the Mantra respectively fall. The Mantra which falls within a certain "house" is called Siddha, that on the next house Sādhya, that in the next Susādhya, and that in the fourth Ari. Siddha and Susādhya Mantras are favourable, and of easy accomplishment. Sādhya is difficult of accomplishment. Ari is inimical, and leads to disaster. These and the like calculations are not necessary either in the Brahman (Chapter III) or the Ādya Mantras of the Present chapter. These Mantras are always favourable.
 2. Niyama=Prescribed rules—that is, Japa should first be done according to the Paśu method (Paśvācāra) by living on Haviṣyāṇna (a pure form of food), continence, restraint of the senses, and so forth.
 3. Aniyama=Literally not according to the prescribed form. It may mean that in this Sādhanā strict observance of rules is not necessary. Tarkālaṁkāra reads "Niyama" and "Aniyama" in which case the dual form should be used. According to him Aniyama means, not according to the ordinary prescribed rules, but according to Virācāra, by drinking wine, eating meat and fish, and union with Śakti. The karpūrādi-Stotra says : "O Mother! he who during the day remains self-controlled, lives on Haviṣyāṇna, and, meditating on Thy two feet, does Japa of Thy Mantra one lakh times, and thereafter (abandoning his Paśu-bhāva) at night unclothes, and whilst with Śakti does Japa another lakh times, shall become on earth like the Destroyer of Smara (Kāma)—i.e., Śiva, who destroyed Kāmā, Deva of Desire." It is elsewhere said : "In the daytime remaining chaste, Japa should be done one lakh of times, and at night in bed, with mouth full of pān, another lakh of Japas should be done" (See ante, Chapter III, verse 14, also Puraścaraṇa-rasollāsa, Durgārcaṇa-mukūra, Āgama-tattva-vilāsa, Kālikārcaṇa-dīpikā). By "mouth full of pān" is implied that Japa is done after a meal, and whilst enjoying oneself in a restful position.

 3. Bhikṣuka.
 4. Tattva-jñe.
 5. Śrauta-samskṛti. Śrauta is the adjective derived from Śruti (the Vedas), and Samskṛti, or Samskāra, are the purificatory ceremonies of the twice-born castes. The Tantra thus further emphasizes the degeneracy of the Kali Age, since even in those two stages (Āśrama) which are prescribed during its continuance, there is a dispensation from rites which the men of that Age are incapable of observing. The Saṁnyāsa Āśrama is in vogue in the Kali Age but the carrying of the staff (Daṇḍadhāraṇa) is not permitted, as the rites attending investiture with the Daṇḍa are Vedic. Some however do carry the Daṇḍa.
 6. Literally, shaken off, cast aside, washed off, one who has separated from the world. An Avadhūta has been thus defined :
Yo vilambyāśramān varṇān-ātmanyeva sthitaḥ pumān, Ati-varṇāśramī yogī avadhūtaḥ sa ucyate.

according to the Śaiva rites,¹ is in the Kali Age equivalent to the entry into the life of a Saṁnyāsin².

The purificatory rites of all are to be according to the rules ordained by Śiva, though the particular practices of the Vipras and other castes vary.

“A man who is above both caste and state of life (āśrama), and ever contemplating the Supreme Soul only, he is called Avadhūta.” The Brāhmaṇa must study, teach, give and take alms, worship and perform worship for others. The Avadhūta, if a Brāhmaṇa, however, does not follow these injunctions, or, if he is a Kṣatriya or Vaiśya, the duties laid down for these castes (see Śakti and Śākta).

1. Śaiva-Saṁskāra—i.e., purificatory ceremonies, according to the Śaiva rites i.e., in the Kali Age the broad principles are to be found in the Śaiva rules, though there must be difference of ritual in the different sects.
2. One who adopts Saṁnyāsa—renunciation; an ascetic.
3. Brāhmaṇas.

2. Madhura-traya. Some say ghee, honey, sugar. It has been previously said that the Sādhaka house-holder may drink up to five cups. Here it is said that a house-holder is not to drink at all. The apparent contradiction is resolved by Tarkālaṅkāra, who says that a house-holder whose mind is engrossed in his Sādhana may drink five cups but he whose mind is occupied with worldly matters and rites for the attainment of worldly advantages should not drink.

शक्तिं स्त्रियम्।

Those born in the Kali Age are by their nature weak in intellect, and their minds are distracted by lust. By reason of this, they do not recognize the Śakti to be the image of the Deity¹.

3. Vivāho bhairavī-cakre tattva-cakre'pi Pārvatī.

Two forms of marriage are, Brāhma (the usual kind) and Śaiva. There is in the first no restriction as regards age or caste. A widow can also so marry. The only restriction is that the woman has not already a husband (ix, 279). The latter marriage is of two kinds, one terminated by the Cakra and the other life-long (ix, 269 and in verse 280). The persons so married are Śaktis. A Śakti again may be Pūjyā or Bhogyā. The latter may be enjoyed and not the former who merely acts as Uttarasādhikā, that is, assists in the ritual the man whose Śakti she is. A Pūjyā-Śakti is never for life. The Bhogyā-Śakti may be for life or for the Cakra only. In all cases some form marriage precedes intercourse where it takes place. On verse 174 Tarkālaṅkāra says that the Brāhma wife is called Sva-śakti or Aparā-śakti (that is not Para-śakti). The Śaiva wife is called Para-śakti. The Brāhma wife, is purified by Śaiva marriage ritual or taken as a Śakti in the Bhairavī-cakra, becomes a Parā-śakti. Parā-śakti should (he says) be treated as the Sādhaka's mother and as Divinity (Iṣṭa-devatā). If the thought of wife relationship (Bhāryā-bhāva) arises in the mind there is a fall. Here (he says) Śiva has prohibited the last Tattva ere long for men of ordinary intelligence and weak control over their desire (Kāma). Such are not competent to take a Śakti. This is not clear. But presumably what is meant is that they are not in a position to do Sādhana with a Śakti. For such a man the presence of a woman is rather an obstacle—Vighna—than a help). Those, however, who by Sādhana have conquered lust, may do Sādhana with Śakti. The Uttara and other Tantras say that after doing Sādhana with Śiva-śakti and obtaining success (Siddhi) then when the mind is free of temptation, Sādhana may be done with Parā-śakti. Gupta-sādhana Tantra says that "in Kulācāra the Siddhamantrin should worship (Pra-pūjayet) the Kula women."

I may add that the various grades of competency and Cakra must be considered. There are men who do Sādhana with a woman who never have sexual intercourse with her nor thought of it. The para-śakti in human form is identified not with the Parā-śakti in Supreme Power. For status of Śaiva wife and her children, see Chapter IX, verse 267, et seq.

2. The threefold debt is that due to the Devas, Ṛṣis, and Pitṛs for protection, teaching, parentage; the fourth debt (Mānava) is that to men for their help. The first is discharged by Yajña, the second by Brahmacharya, the third by giving birth to children, and the fourth by the performance of the duties of the Āśrama.

3. Ṛṣi according to some comes from that root Dṛś=to see for they are seers. Vācaspatya derives it from root Ṛṣ=to go, that is, one who has gone to the end of Samsāra by Jñāna is a Ṛṣi. Bhāratī classifies them as follows: the highest are the mānasa-putras of Brahmā who are Sanaka, Sanandana, Sanātana and others. The second class are the Devarṣis—Nārada and others. The third class are the Brahmarṣis Bhṛgu and others. Others give a different classification, Bhṛgu is there a Mānasa-putra which is then the same as Brahmarṣi. Another class of Ṛṣis is the King's who are Ṛṣis (Rājarsi).

He will be happy in the knowledge that, as the unreal universe, which is not Sat, has its support in Sat or the Truth,⁴ so the body has the Spirit as its support.

1. Nis-traiguṇya. Tri-guṇa, the three qualities of manifested being, are Sattva, Rajas, Tamas. The state of possession of the three qualities is Traiguṇya, which is Sakāma and that of freedom from them Nis-traiguṇya.
2. Nir-vikalpa, which, Bhārati says, means here devoid of imaginings (Kalpanā). Vikalpa, according to Yoga-Sūtra (i. 9), is a notion conveyed by mere words, but of which there is no corresponding real object.
3. Asañcayī. Asañcayī is a person who makes provision for the uncertainty of the future not necessarily in a bad sense. An Asañcayī leaves the future to take care of itself. So Jesus said "Take no heed for the morrow" which is Yoga practice.
4. Satya—that is, the Supreme spirit=Paramātmā. Ātmā=Self or Spirit. "Supported" (Upāśritya) for the self is the support of all (Āśraya). In it which is the eternally enduring Sat are the changing passing forms which are Asat. The term unreal leads to misconception. Asat is the contrary of Sat, and Sat is that which endured. As to "Reality" see World as Power by the author.

He attains Liberation by the realization that the Spirit is completely detached from the organs of sense which function each its own way, and is the witness of that which is done¹.

1. The intelligent man becomes aware that his spirit is distinct from the body, and in no way dependent on it (see Chapter III, part XII, of the Chāndogya-Upaniṣad). And so, according to the Vedānta—Ātmā sākṣī ceta kevalo nirguṇaśca—"the Spirit is the one, intelligent, attributeless witness," and to its permanency is due, to use Kantian phraseology, the cause of "the synthetic unity of apperception."

O Devī! without knowledge of the Brahman and the abandonment of all action, man cannot attain Liberation, even though he performed countless such acts of worship³.

1. That is, in the case of the Aprāpta-yoga.
2. As Śāṅkarācārya, in the Commentary on the Chāndogya Upaniṣad, says : "Rites are enjoined on one who is conscious of the nature of actor and recipient, and is subject to the defects of envy, anger, and the rest. Forms of knowledge contribute to the knowledge to the non-dual, and are easy of accomplishment. They are primarily propounded, and first of all adoration with ceremony, inasmuch as, man-king being habituated to ceremony, adoration without it is difficult. In the case, however, of him who has overcome disjunctive knowledge, there is no necessity for religious restraint, observances, or for penance (Tapas)."
3. Because, as stated, only non-dual knowledge liberates, and duality is inherent in ceremonial worship.
